

Hello Retailers!

Welcome to the fall edition of PRH Panels+ Retailer Resource Guide! As the name states, this is a guidebook for Retailers only—something you can keep behind the counter to reference easily when placing orders, putting together new shelves or displays, finding new recommendations for customers, handselling products, and more!

This catalog covers key Fall & Winter 2024/25 titles from various publishers that we think your customers will love. You'll find a complete listing of all the titles in our monthly digital PRH Panels catalog, as usual. We've also highlighted those evergreen titles that continually sell well, so you can have easy reference. Our popular retailer interviews are back as well, packed with a ton of useful info. This time we have interviews with Robert Smethers of Comic City, Brian Hibbs of Comix Experience, Colette Penketh of The Comics Place, Bruce Treat of Comics Adventure, Andrea Puttkammer of Galactic Quest, and Chris Dreese of Newbury Comics!

Browse this catalog and share it with your staff to find titles that might have flown under your radar! Our sales reps have curated guides in each section—like our Character Essential lists, “Like This, Try That,” and Media Tie-In highlights that will help you stock your shelves with titles that will keep customers coming back for more. Looking for the best Godzilla comics and graphic novels for customers that love Godzilla Minus One or Godzilla x Kong? We've got you covered! Are fans coming into your store asking what to read before Superman Legacy or Joker: Folie à Deux release in theaters? Our handy DC Media Tie-In list will point you in the right direction!

Our expansive sections on Kids & YA titles and Manga, Manhwa, & Manhua are perfect resources to help expand your stock to appeal to new customers! We have great handselling tips written by our knowledgeable sales reps to make it easier for you to find the right book for young readers coming to your store. These are written to help both kids and their parents find the right titles to build reading skills and interest in classic and new series that will have them returning to your store as they grow older.

We also highly recommend checking out our sections on Prose books and Gifts & Games. As your customer community grows, we have plenty of recommendations on titles and products that they may not have thought to come to your store for. Many of our Prose picks fit right into the comic shop environment—including some incredible tie-in books for franchises like Batman, Critical Role, and Marvel's “What It...?” series. Our Gifts & Games section also has plenty to satisfy comic fans and kids who want to learn more about the characters they recognize from their favorite movies and shows. Character guides and encyclopedias are great high-value purchases that make perfect holiday gifts. We also highly recommend checking out our list of Pop Culture Cookbooks, featuring franchises your customers already know like Godzilla, Dungeons & Dragons, Bluey, and Game of Thrones. These are excellent to encourage watch parties and gatherings that will increase word of mouth for other products and your store!

Our Retailers are our partners, and we're always looking for new ways to support you all. Retailers who have any questions are encouraged to reach out to their sales rep or email us at comicmarketUS@penguinrandomhouse.com.

Colorist CRIS PETER; Letterer CLAYTON COWLES;
Cover Design or Artwork by DAVID LÓPEZ

Riley is a teen that sketches out his heavy metal future with a ballpoint pen between monster movies and band practice. But musical stardom needs to compete with high school, the temper of a former Riot Grrrl mother, the morbid obsessions of a goth sister, and the eccentricities of bandmates that threaten to drive him and everyone around him insane.

The balance gets harder after a ritual during a party in Portland's Forest Park causes him to wake up one day to discover that the creatures, witchcraft, and metal world he's obsessed with may be a bit closer to home than he preferred.

Retailer Interview

Robert Smethers // Comic City

How long have you been in business?

Thirty one years on Memorial Day 2024.

What has been the biggest challenge for your store?

A continual challenge has been adapting to a changing customer base, while staying true to who you are and what you want to be. We've wasted time and money at times chasing tangents that were ultimately not true to what we do. We're constantly refocusing our merchandise mix to try to stay on course. In retail the challenge is always adapting to what your customers expectations are. For most casual customers convenience is the top motivator, and our stores have always been based on convenience. The move from main street retailing to malls, from malls to big box, from big box to online, and now from online to local have all been about what is more convenient. We aim for easy to find and access real estate, accessible staff, convenient hours, easy to understand services. But after the pandemic, much of the normal thinking, traffic patterns, hours of operation, sales windows, have all changed, and are still changing, but making the business easy and convenient to what customers want is a continual challenge.

How have you adapted to changes in the industry? We've always been believers in data and Point of Sale information. You should always seek out others' opinions, but in the end they are just that, opinions. Real sales information from our POS (what I call the Truth Machine) mixed with the input and experience of others forms a better decision making process than just one by itself. We also are fortunate to have staff that are smart and can be trusted to add input that isn't biased by their own opinion. If everyone wants our industry to grow, we need better standardized data between publishers & distributors so it can be utilized properly.

Having been in business for so long, how have you gone about maintaining a sense of connection and community with your customers?

We have done a number of community related items from food drives, local events, and library support for FCBD, but we've never been an event driven store. Our main connection comes from realizing our business is different, relying on repeat customers rather than one time sales. Our goal is to turn customers into friends and family. And a part of that connection comes from being in business so long. Customers become friends, they grow up and have families, and then the circle begins again. One of my favorite stories came during a recent store move when I said to a customer that I hoped he didn't forget where we moved to. He said we were an "institution" in town, that he'd been with us his whole life and couldn't forget. For some of our customers there's never been a day in their life they haven't driven past our stores going to school or work.

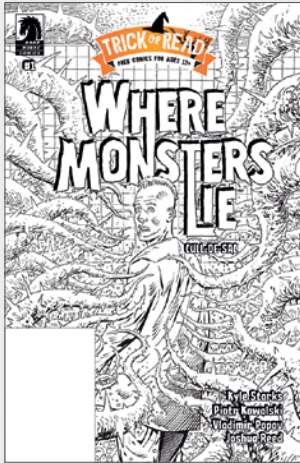

How have you built a connection to your local area?

Our stores may be around one city, but each location is unique. The customer mix is different, so the merchandise mix has to be different. Some stores will do better with children's books, some with European material, some with manga, some with superhero. Eventually those customers will change, so you need to know where their interests are going. We've always found a strong children's department is a great

Brian Hibbs // Comix Experience

How did you go about starting a book club at your store?
What was the hardest thing to figure out?

We started the Comix Experience Graphic Novel of the Month Clubs (www.graphicnovelclub.com/start) as a response to a local San Francisco law that raised minimum wage to $15/hour, almost a decade ago now. MW is currently $18.67 here. And we're not a minimum wage job, either! We did the math and quickly saw that would have put us out of business, so we came up with the notion of a pair of subscription based GN Clubs—one aimed at adults, the other aimed at Kids ("Middle readers", roughly 8-13).

Our staff votes on each month's selection, we arrange a unique, hand-signed bookplate (www.comixexperience.com/gn-club-book-plates), and conduct an interview with the creators that is livestreamed (www.youtube.com/c/comixexperience). Recently we've also started converting the videos to Podcasts as well. Our club isn't just within our own four walls, but we have hundreds of members all over the world. It is aimed at exposing the best of comics every month to an audience that, presumably, doesn't have the time and energy to stay up on the field themselves.

Figuring out how to cost-effectively ship out hundreds of packages a month (previously, if we sent out one package a week that was a lot!) was likely our greatest challenge.

How long did it take before you had a good response from your customers?

Because we (had to!) present it as an existential peril, the response was pretty immediate. And because it was designed as a subscription model that gave the customer value for their support, rather than a GoFundMe kind of begging deal, that really encouraged people to support us.

Thankfully, it worked—our hundreds of members in 48 states and 3 other countries are what makes the difference for not needing to lay off staff. We also have about 130 copies going into the San Francisco Unified School District elementary school libraries for the Kid's Club.

How do you select titles for book club?
What genres/types of graphic novels work best?

We pick what we, as a widely- and deeply-read staff of a graphic novel driven store, think is the best comic each month. All monthly selections are intended to either be stand-alone stories or the first chapter of one. They have never been released more than 60 days before the calendar month of the club (that is: the June book is never older than an April release) We are also very story- and creator-focused, rather than character- or genre- driven. The goal is to present an overview of what is happening in comics at any given moment.

We are looking to provide as diverse a collection of genres, styles, and perspectives (age, race, sex and sexualities of creators and/or protagonists) as we possibly can because this properly reflects our diverse staff in our diverse city and our diverse customers. We skip effortlessly between fiction and non-fiction as well—comics are a medium, not a genre, and our clubs reflect that.

Often the month's selection is very obvious, but when we have debate among the staff, we use a vote as the way to select our finalist.

Retailer Interview

Brian Hibbs // Comix Experience

What have been some recent book club selections?

On the adult side, May was the fantastic piece of non-fiction ADVOCATE by local non-profit leader Eddie Ahn, published by Ten Speed. April was the feminist Body Horror TENDER by Beth Hetland, from Fantagraphics. March has the college hi-jinx of BUNT! by Ngozi Ukazu and Mad Rupert from First Second. And in February, we were honored to present the memoir of Chinese dissident Ai Weiwei in ZODIAC also published by Ten Speed.

For the Kid's Club, the last four were Megan Brennan's MAGIC GIRLS: KIRA AND THE (MAYBE) SPACE PRINCESS from Random House Graphics in May. April's selection was UNICORN BOY by Dave Roman from FirstSecond. March was EOWULF by Mike Cavallaro, also from FirstSecond. And February's pick was KIS IN TROUBLE by Gary Clement published by Little, Brown.

I really really love having the Kid's Club, and interviewing kid's comics authors. And, wow, do parents love it too! Originally, we were just going to do the Adult club, but a Librarian wrote me an email seeing if I would consider doing a kid's version, and I am so glad they did, because we actually have a larger audience for the Kid's Club now. Hopefully I am helping create many more new comics-smart readers over the long term from this service.

What has been the key to growing participation? How do you advertise the book club?

Honestly, it's mostly word-of-mouth. We've tried a variety digital advertising campaigns, but I've not tripped on the secret that makes that more than a basically break-even proposition. We've also done a print ad in BOOM!'s line of titles thanks to a charity auction for Binc at the ComicsPRO annual meeting.

But, if you pick good books, that you and your staff really personally believe in, I think you can't help but grow participation.

What are some assets that you look for from publishers?

First thing we need is access to a galley of the book far enough in advance. We tend to ask for between six and ten galleys each month. Because I very much believe that much of the language and magic of comics stems from the physicality of space, I need a physical galley, my brain doesn't let me read digital comics.

After that, if we select the book, we need the publisher to help us arrange the interview session, and for them to execute our signed bookplates. Because it's at least two hundred copies (non-returnable) of any given selection, most are really willing to help out for those kinds of sales. There's been more than a few cases where we've single handedly bought 1% or more of a given book's initial print run.

What advice do you have for retailers looking to start their own book club?

Don't wait. While I've hit on a national formula that works very well for us, with the livestreamed interviews and such, even if you did something more traditional—focusing on intra-customer conversation—as a graphic novel retailer you should really feel comfortable with your ability to lead a discussion. You talk cogently about comics all day long after all, right?

Book Clubs drive customer loyalty, and keep them engaged with you in a way that's beyond just basic business transactions. They help you build trust in your community.

Don't. Murder. The locals.

This is small-town serial killer, upstanding citizen, and adorable brown bear Samantha Strong's cardinal rule. After all, there's a sea of perfectly ripe potential victims in the big city just beyond the forest, and when you've worked as hard as Sam to build a cozy life and a thriving business in a community surrounded by friendly fellow animal folk, the last thing you want is to disturb the peace.

So you can imagine her indignation when one of Woodbrook's own meets a grisly, mysterious demise—and you wouldn't blame her for doing anything it takes to hunt down her rival.

Perfect for fans of any era of the Turtles from the original Mirage years to the recent Rise of the TMNT.

Now a talented artist and aspiring filmmaker, Brian, along with Jimmy, Jimmy's friend Tina, and Laurie—his reluctant muse—sets off to a remote cabin in the woods with an old 8 millimeter camera to make a true sci-fi horror movie, an homage to Brian's favorite movie: Invasion of the Body Snatchers. But as Brian's affections for Laurie go seemingly unreciprocated, Brian writes and draws himself into a fantasy where she is the girl of his dreams, his damsel in distress, and his savior wrapped into one.

Retailer Interview

Colette Penketh // The Comics Place

What goes into curating a good graphic novel section in your store? Are there certain genres or formats you focus on? How do you choose what graphic novels to order?

Our goal is always to be a store that hopefully has a little something for everyone who comes through our doors. We rely heavily on our staff's diverse taste in genres, art, and story style to help us keep a broad and interesting selection of books in stock. We encourage them to always be suggesting books that they think are interesting or are excited about. Anything that they feel passionate about being able to tell customers about is something we want to always have in stock. It also helps spread some of the burden of always having to be aware of every upcoming book from every smaller publisher and allows us to have a bigger selection of things in addition to those that are standard in every comic shop. "Ooo, this is cool! I've never seen this before!" is one of our favorite things to hear and what we're always striving for.

How do you bring new readers to your store? How do you keep those customers returning?

We try really hard to make that friend or relative that has begrudgingly come in with someone else feel comfortable and hopefully find something that surprises them. We've expanded our selection of non comic offerings that are still nerdy or comics adjacent, such as themed cookbooks, art books, children's picture books, how to draw books, etc. and have them displayed towards the front of the shop. This has worked surprisingly well for making wary people feel at ease and bucking any negative expectations of what a comic book store environment will be like. We also keep our favorite "gateway comics" front and center too. Those comics that don't tie into lots of continuity references that a novice won't know, have clear panel layouts and speech bubble placement, and art that is interesting and welcoming. It's so easy to want to put the best thing you've ever read in a new reader's hands. But, so often with the masterworks of comics, if you're still trying to figure out which bubble of text you are supposed to read next, you'll be missing so much of what makes it amazing. Much better to suggest something that is interesting and easy to read to set them up for an enjoyable first experience.

What are some challenges you face in selling graphic novels, and how do you meet those challenges?

Follow through from casual readers coming back for later volumes has always been a challenge. We've leant more into keeping formats like deluxe editions and omnibuses in stock and are having success making the pitch once on the larger volume rather than selling a smaller volume and hoping for the return business. This seemed daunting with the hefty price usually attached to those formats, but customers have been far more receptive to the idea of getting it in larger chunks or all at once than we anticipated. It seems to also set newer readers up for a more positive experience with comics. When they can have the payoff of a conclusion to the story they're reading it can make them more inclined to want to start something new.

Percy Jackson, now a high school senior, needs three recommendation letters from the Greek gods in order to get into New Rome University. The goddess Hecate has offered Percy another “opportunity”—all he has to do is pet sit her polecat, Gale, and mastiff, Hecuba, over Halloween week while she is away.

Percy, Annabeth, and Grover settle into Hecate’s seemingly endless mansion and start getting acquainted with the fussy, terrifying animals. While Percy and Annabeth are out at school, Grover can’t resist drinking a strawberry-flavored potion in the laboratory. It turns him into a giant frenzied goat, and after he rampages through the house, damaging everything in sight, and passes out, Gale and Hecuba escape.

A thrilling graphic novel about Stephen Curry's underdog story and meteoric rise to becoming one of the greatest basketball players of all time!

Stephen Curry #1

Written by JOSH BYCEL and RICH KORSON;
Illustrated by DAMION SCOTT

Stephen Curry is considered one of the—if not the—greatest shooters of all time. But his road to greatness was filled with plenty of bumps and obstacles. Coaches and players always told him he was too small and too short to be truly great.

Even when Curry declared his eligibility for the NBA, a scouting report noted that he “lacks great height, length or strength, and possesses below average lateral quickness...making him a potential defensive liability.”

Proving all of his doubters wrong, today Stephen Curry is a four-time NBA Champion, two-time league MVP, and Finals MVP winner.

Halfway to Somewhere

Written by JOSE PIMIENATA

Ave thought moving to Kansas would be boring and flat after enjoying the mountains and trails in Mexico, but at least they would have their family with them. Unfortunately, while Ave, their mom, and their younger brother are relocating to the US, Ave's father and older sister will be staying in Mexico...permanently. Their parents are getting a divorce.

As if learning a whole new language wasn't hard enough, and now a Middle-Schooler has to figure out a new family dynamic...and what this means for them as they start middle school with no friends.

The Kiss Bet Volume One

Created by INGRID OCHOA

It's senior year and Sara Lin just turned eighteen. The last thing she needs is to worry about having her first kiss. But that's all about to change because her good pal Patrick just challenged her to a bet that will either lead to love, heartbreak, or embarrassment . . . or maybe all three.

Sara Lin understands that her first kiss is a rite of passage, one that she takes very seriously, even if everyone around her doesn't. She wants it to be special—true love's kiss—and wants to fall for someone she really cares about, not just get it over with.

Retailer Interview

Bruce Treat // Comics Adventure

What goes into curating a successful Kids & YA section in your store?

It's really just paying attention to what customers are asking for and looking at sale's trends and maybe trying some new titles periodically. We also look to what traditional books stores are selling for ideas and marketing.

How do you make your Kids & YA shelves accessible for kids to browse?

We put a lot of the titles face out. Kids (and adults) are more enticed by the front of a book than the spine. We also make sure to keep the books at a maximum height of about five feet so that kids can see the books and not have to look too far up. We have a kids table where families can sit and read a book before purchase and kids can also sit there while mom or dad shop for monthly comics. The younger set books in our shop are also roughly grouped by age range so right when you enter the shop, the board books for babies and toddlers are right there and then the books wend their way up through elementary and middle age to tweens and lastly, YA the further you are from our front door.

What are some challenges you face in selling Kids & YA graphic novels?

People think of comics shops as only having comics and specifically superhero comics. It's important to market yourself as a specialized bookstore that carries many books that mostly have lots of pictures and not just a comic shop.

Retailer Interview

Bruce Treat // Comics Adventure

How do you educate your staff to sell Kids/YA graphic novels?

They're encouraged to read outside their comfort zone and age and gender so that they might find something they wouldn't normally read such as Dog Man, Amulet and Little Golden Books. The Jaws Little Golden Book was one of our top sellers in 2023 and it's a pretty awesome book for adults and kids.

Any advice for retailers looking to start/expand their Kids/YA section?

Look at bestseller lists but also go to traditional bookstores and see what they're carrying. Listen to what parents and kids want to see. Talk to other B&M retailers online to find out what's working for them. We brought in the Bluey books that way and they've been very successful for us.

East Asian Comics Glossary

Manhwa: Korean comics, read left-to-right. In Korea, digital comics dominate sales, so many manhwa are formatted for digital reading (vertical scrolling) and adapted for print.

Manhua: Chinese comics, reading format varies left-to-right or right-to-left. Due to strict censorship laws from the Cultural Revolution, it has been rare for manhua to be legally published outside of China until very recently.

Donghua refers to animated shows made in China, Taiwan, & Hong Kong.

Webtoons: Originating in South Korea, webtoons are digital comics that are formatted for vertical scrolling on smartphones. The term has been popularized online and now refers to digital comics from various creators/countries and is not limited to South Korean manhwa.

Web Comics: Refers to digital comics that are formatted in page-turn style (typically Western style L-to-R), rather than vertical scrolling.

Light Novels (aka LNs) are a type of Japanese novel that typically have a shorter page count (similar to novellas). In Japan, LNs are commonly marketed toward teens and young adults, but in the US and other English language countries, readership is crossover teen/adult. Like standard novels, light novels span across a variety of genres.

Danmei is a fiction genre originating from China that centers romanticized relationships of love and attraction between men. Danmei novels are typically first serialized on webnovel sites.

Webnovels are novels serialized by chapter online. Many novels, comics, live action dramas, and animated shows produced in China are based off popular webnovels.

Kids: Titles that are marketed for Kids and are suitable for All Ages (also called "Kodomo" or "Kodomomuke").

Shojo: Primarily marketed to teen girls. Genres often include coming of age, romance, magical girls, and feature young girl protagonists.

Shonen: Primarily marketed to teen boys. Genres often include coming of age, action and adventure, and features a teen boy protagonist or hero.

Josei: Primarily marketed to older teen/young women. Series often feature young adult women and tend to show more realistic interpersonal relationships (as opposed to shojo's often idealized ones) and can cover more mature or darker subjects.

Seinen: Primarily marketed to older teen/young men. Series often feature more mature themes, including sex and/or violence, and young adult or adult male protagonists. In some series, images may be more graphic (gore, partial nudity).

Rated Mature (18+): Can include titles that have mature, edgy, and/or "ecchi," erotic content. This category can be compared to what HBO/Cinemax is to network TV. Ecchi is generally not perceived as pornography by fans, and the level of explicitness depends on the series. Some series with no erotic content are rated mature due to depictions of sexual assault, violence, gore, or other mature themes.

Autobio/Essay: Nonfiction manga is trending, particularly autobio/memoir, also referred to as essay manga, which draws on the author's own life experiences. Common topics include gender and sexuality, mental health, substance abuse, family life and pets, food, and travel.

Award Winners: There are many manga-specific awards recognized in Japan (Japan Cartoonists Association Award, Tezuka Osamu Cultural Award, etc.) and some International awards (International Manga Award). Graphic novel industry awards outside of Japan often include translated manga (The Eisner Awards, Harvey Awards).

Classics: Classic manga generally refers to manga that has significantly affected culture or impacted a certain genre. It can also refer to manga published in the late 60s-70s, 80s-90s, and late 90s-early 2000s, as each manga generation has a specific art style associated with it and was published at a time when English translated manga was less accessible.

Isekai: Isekai is often referred to as "other world." The general premise is that a character is transported to another world, usually a fantasy or sci-fi realm, and adventures or slice-of-life stories follow. Modern Isekai manga often has an RPG vibe that appeals to tabletop and video-gamers. Reverse-Isekai is when a character from another world appears in our ordinary world.

LGBTQ+: The LGBTQ+ manga genre features explicit or implied LGBTQ+ protagonists, and often discusses self-identity and real-life issues faced by members of the LGBTQ+ community. An increasing number of "own voices," publicly out LGBTQ+ manga creators are being published today.

Romance for Men: Many romance manga series appeal to all genders, and there are series that skew towards a male audience of readers. A popular subgenre is romantic comedies with cute, shy, or teasing girl characters.

Yaoi/BL: Yaoi, or Boys Love (BL), refers to manga that focuses on romantic relationships between men. The main creators and audience of this genre are women.

Yuri/GL: Yuri, or Girls Love (GL), refers to manga that focuses on romantic relationships between women.

Adapted by GOU TANABE;

What links together two bands of worshippers, one deep in the Arctic snows, one hidden in the bayous of Louisiana, is more than their shared practice of blood sacrifice.

It is the inhuman phrase they both chant: Ph'nglui mglw'nafh Cthulhu R'lyeh wgah'nagl fhtagn—"In his house at R'lyeh dead Cthulhu waits dreaming." Now these nightmares will disturb the sanity of Francis Thurston, a young man pursuing an investigation into the cult of Cthulhu that leads to the most forsaken spot in the vast Pacific.

I Ship My Rival X Me (The Comic / Manhwa) Vol. 1

Written by PEPA;
Illustrated by QUALIA

Wei Yanzi and Gu Yiliang debuted together three years ago, from the same agency, so it was inevitable that they'd be considered rivals by their fans. Unfortunately for Yanzi, while Yiliang has phenomenal acting skills to go with his good looks... Yanzi only has the good looks. He's so tired of reading online hate comments accusing him of scheming to undermine Yiliang that when he stumbles across a community of people who believe the two actors are an item, it's a relief! Thrilled to find a community where nobody's trash-talking him, Yanzi becomes addicted to their posts analyzing his and Yiliang's every move for shipping fuel.

Otonari Complex Vol. 1

Written by SAKU NONOMURA

An endearing manga about childhood best friends—a “girly” boy and a “boyish” girl—working through their feelings about identity and love.

Kuji Akira and Ninomiya Makoto are childhood friends and neighbors. Since Akira is “handsome” for a girl and Makoto is “pretty” for a boy, their gender presentation is often confused. As they try to untangle their complex feelings about themselves and each other, they find out their friends are crushing on them, too. It's a complicated childhood friend love story!

Retailer Interview

Andrea Puttkammer // Galactic Quest

What goes into curating an inviting and successful manga/manhwa section in your store?

There are a few key elements in creating a thriving manga/manhwa section. First and foremost, having someone on the team who has a passion for manga is essential. I grew up surrounded by manga and manhwa and have become fortunate enough to have the opportunity to spread that love and passion at the shops. For your shop, if you can find that special person it truly makes the difference, but someone who has the drive to learn more definitely works. The second most important thing is having knowledge and understanding what the customers want and being able to obtain those series and volumes. Having a dedicated person who has that key information and passion can help greatly in figuring out what is important to order for your audience and in avoiding potential shelf rocks.

Online resources can help a lot as well in gauging what will be a hit and what classics you may want to incorporate. The last thing I have discovered is the significance of having bright and curated displays specifically for manga and manhwa. Having that dedicated space is vital for making customers feel appreciated as well as making it inviting and organized for browsing books. Having the right sized displays and shelves is a must!

Was there already a demand for manga/manhwa from your customers, or did you take steps to bring those new readers in?

When I was officially hired, I noticed that there were many customers who would often ask if we had any manga or anime related products. We had very little at the time so I saw that as an opportunity to let my passions shine and to grow the business in return. We started off with a few shelves in the front of the store and pretty quickly expanded that to half the store being dedicated to manga/manhwa books, statues, posters and gundams. It is something that is truly appreciated by the customers and has allowed us to expand our outreach and demographics. I am also able to share my enthusiasm with the rest of our staff, and have introduced them to quite a few series. These have frequently become new favorites that they wholeheartedly recommend to others. Moreover, I had the opportunity to share a sample of our selection at our local Japan Fest convention, which curated more buzz for the media and customer awareness of our efforts at the stores. Whenever we get new shipments we also like to share it to our community through our social media pages.

How do you encourage customers new to manga to try it out?

Having knowledge of the medium is very helpful, but having a spotlight section on where to start is beneficial as well! I like to start by asking what genre customers are into and giving recommendations from there. Manga has a vast variety of genres so there is something for everyone, we just have to figure out where they fit. I also like to recommend series that will have anime coming out so that they can read it before they watch or even watch it before they read. The multiple media options are helpful in introducing new customers to the world of manga and manhwa.

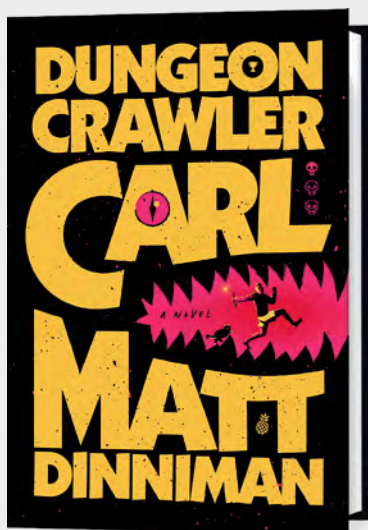

What are some challenges you face in selling manga/manhwa, and how do you meet those challenges?

At times, I have noticed that our sales can become hindered when certain popular books or notable older series are out of stock. Whenever possible, I like to make sure that we have enough stock for in-demand titles. We keep a special order sheet for customers who are interested in knowing when specific titles have arrived. If a series is completely or temporarily unavailable, I try to recommend similar series that they might enjoy. I also ensure that we have beginner-friendly titles on hand for those who are just starting to read manga and manhwa. I start them off with entry-level stories and explain how to read it from back-to-front and from right-to-left.

Any advice for retailers looking to start/expand their manga/manhwa section in their store?

Test the market and see if the customers are interested in this category. There are a few universal titles that most people have heard of and would take a chance on buying. Additionally, manga takes up more space than you may think, so we recommend making sure you have sufficient shelf space to display it. For us it was something that really boosted our store and provided our staff with a new source of excitement and community connection. If you have the space and desire to stock manga/manhwa, I recommend ordering the top sellers and starting from there. To expand, look at what is new and watch the market to see which books are worth investing in. Various manga and anime-related videos and websites can also serve as helpful guides. Making sure the classics are covered is also always appreciated. The cherry on top is having a love for manga! If you genuinely enjoy a series and can sell it, that is the best way to go!

It Will Only Hurt for a Moment

Written by DELILAH S. DAWSON

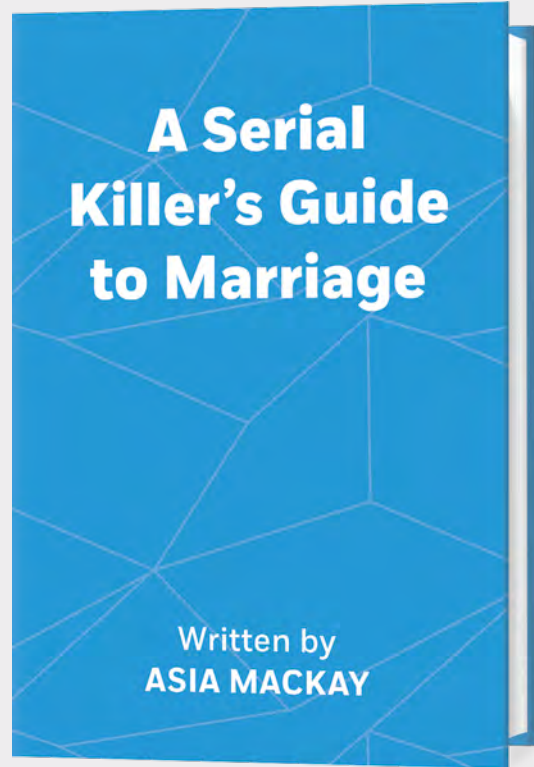

Sarah Carpenter is starting over.

She’s on the run and headed for a new beginning at Tranquil Falls, a secluded artists’ colony on the grounds of a closed hotel.

When Sarah uncovers the body of a young woman while digging a hole for a pit kiln, things start to fall apart. Her fellow artists begin to act in troubling ways. Not to mention the haunting dreams Sarah has night after night.

When she discovers glass shards in her clay, Sarah wonders if someone is out to get her—or if she’s losing her grip on reality out here in the wilds.

Bells Hells—What Doesn't Break

Written by CASSANDRA KHAW and CRITICAL ROLE

Uncover the last years of Critical Role's undead spellcaster in this original prequel novel to Laudna's adventures with Bells Hells.

For as long as she can remember, Laudna has had a little voice whispering in her cropped ear, promising that there will always be someone to guide her.

But the thought of more is unrelenting in its familiarity. More is the dream of the young girl trapped behind the bloodstained walls of Whitestone, and the nightmare of the woman who now stalks the woods outside them. More is dangerous.

But still, she thinks of more. And when she reaches for that dream, what reaches back will change everything.

Marvel: What If . . . Marc Spector Was Host to Venom? (A Moon Knight & Venom Story)

Written by MIKE CHEN

What if Moon Knight was subsumed by a Venom from another universe?

Marc Spector is used to voices in his head. What he's not used to: staring into the face of a literal out-of-body doppelgänger.

It becomes clear this other Marc didn't travel solo. A symbiote named Venom casts off its current host and begins to merge with Marc.

The other Jake and Steven regain consciousness to find themselves in a strange reality, without their Marc but with a strange bird-like god insisting that "they will do." The pair make a deal: become Khonshu's new avatar to track Venom's path of destruction.

Marvel origin stories are reimagined in this epic multiversal series.

Written by SEANAN MCGUIRE

As they try to protect New York City, the Parker siblings learn that with great powers, there must also come great responsibilities—and greater losses.

Retailer Interview

Chris Dreese // Newbury Comics

What goes into curating good prose section in your store? Are there any specific genres you focus on?

At Newbury Comics, we find categories that work and take quick action to build on our successes. Unlike manga/graphics, we do not intend to compete with big box bookstores like Barnes and Noble in this category. What we can do is be well stocked in a handful of genres that tie into the rest of our stores' offerings.

A few genres we focus on are anime (art of, cookbook, guidebook), TV/movie/gaming tie-ins, RPG, and classics (ex. 1984, Puffin Classics, and J.R.R. Tolkien). In the last year, we have put great effort into expanding the book category, with new bookcases installed in many locations. Some newer categories we've seen success with are romance (thanks, BookTok!) and young readers, with the implementation of product lines such as Little Golden Books and Bluey.

A common theme amongst our offerings is a high level of giftability. A large percentage of our book shoppers are not looking for anything in particular. Instead, they are there to browse and impulsively make a purchase, or they are there to solve the problem of buying someone a gift.

Strategically testing individual new items is paramount to our success. Having 29 locations gives us a great advantage. I will frequently order, say, 6 copies of a book and send one copy each to select stores. Within a couple of weeks, it will be clear whether the product works since we are effectively running 6 independent tests simultaneously. The beauty is that if it fails, we're only stuck with 6 bad books. However, the upside is nearly unlimited if it's a hit since we can mass reorder and have multiple copies in all our stores within weeks. This method of testing is used across most of our product categories and is what allows us to capitalize on trends rapidly with minimal downside.

How do you attract existing customers to your prose section?

Besides carrying books related to our other categories, we also build mini sections dedicated to specific brands to encourage sales between categories. For example, a Beatles book may be displayed alongside Beatles Vinyl and T-shirts, or a Godzilla book may be placed next to Godzilla POPs and plush. We do this for as many brands as space allows in a particular store.

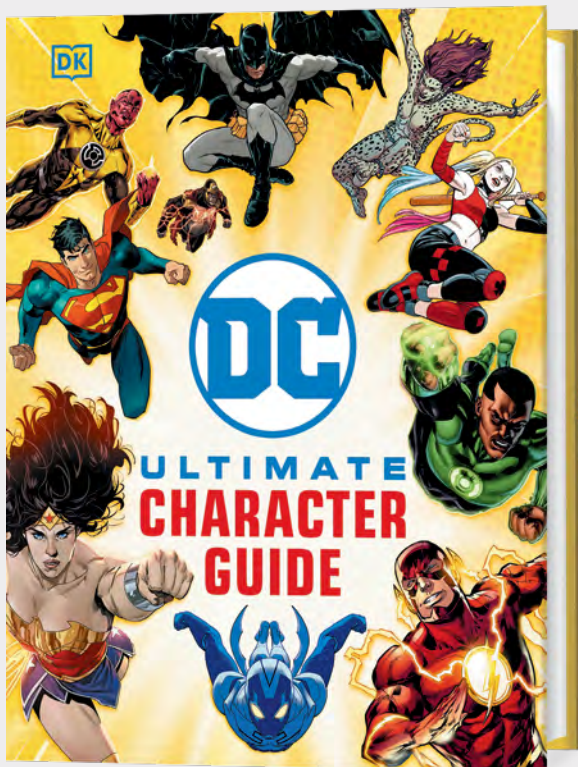

Do you highlight prose in your store? How is it merchandised?

Prose is unique among the big three book categories (prose, graphics, manga) in that the customer generally has no idea they will make a purchase until they find it in the store. This makes visibility critical. With a category like manga, we can jam-pack books spine out on the shelves, and savvy shoppers will still find what they are looking for. Books, on the other hand, require face-outs or easy-to-shop niche sections with signage or else customers will get lost browsing.

Every book we bring in is categorized into one of about 20 genres. This helps stores build their stacks and keep things neat and tidy. We also utilize three "hotspot" displays at every store's entrance that contain exclusively face-outs. One is dedicated to books/graphics/manga but focuses on books. Hotspot displays are filled with products from a curated list of bestsellers and new test products so that all customers see the most interesting items when they walk in the door.

HOW TO ORDER for PRH Panels Catalog

Browsing titles and placing orders on the PRH .Biz site is both quick and easy. Here's a brief guide to help you navigate the PRH Self-Service platform.

To begin adding titles to your cart you can either search directly for a title/UPC or browse the catalogs.

Searching

From the main screen you can search for books using ISBNs/UPCs, titles, keywords, author names, or series names.

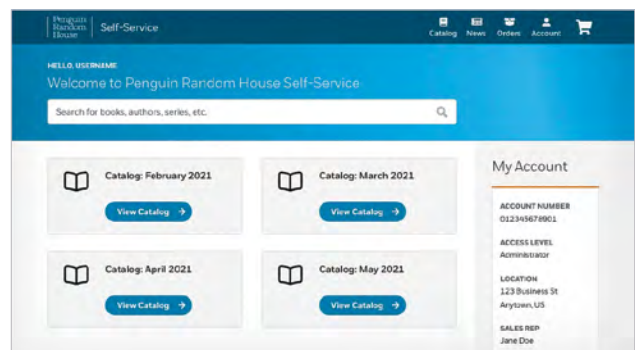

If you have a list of titles you want to order, you can paste up to 300 ISBNs/UPCs from a spreadsheet or a list separated by a line break. You can also paste this list with quantities directly into your shopping cart by using the "Add UPCs/ISBNs" button.

Viewing Catalogs

Every month, we release a new catalog on our .BIZ homepage. As soon as new catalogs are available, you can start browsing and adding items to your cart and building your initial order. You can view your latest catalogs by selecting "Catalog" from the top header or by accessing the latest catalog from your homepage.

Once you're in the catalog, you'll see that titles are grouped by FOC date. You can sort and filter them in many ways, like by format, publisher, series, and more. To add a title to your FOC Cart, just choose a location, select the quantity, and click "Add to FOC Cart." Want to add multiple titles at once? Make your selections and click the "Multi-add mode" button.

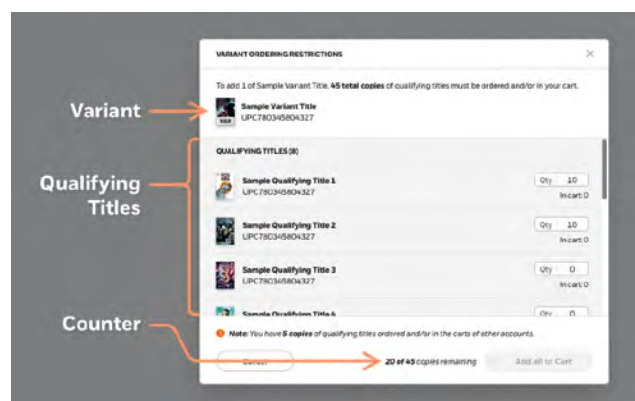

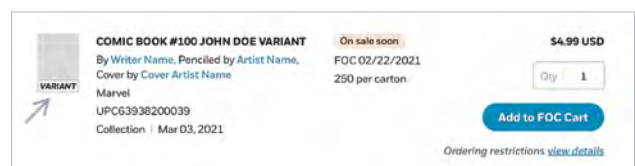

Variant Covers

As a Direct Market customer, you can order variant covers of comic books through our site. All variants are marked with a tag on the cover image. When you click on a variant, a pop-up window will appear to show you any ordering restrictions and quantity requirements.

Some variants have specific ordering restrictions, just click on the 'view details' link to see the ratio ordering rules and quantity requirements. We'll even show you a counter that updates in real-time to reflect any changes you make to your cart. Once you've met the requirements, click 'Add all to Cart'.

If you make any changes to your cart that affect your eligibility for a variant, a pop-up message will appear. You can choose to proceed with the change and remove the variant from your cart or cancel the change and keep the variant.

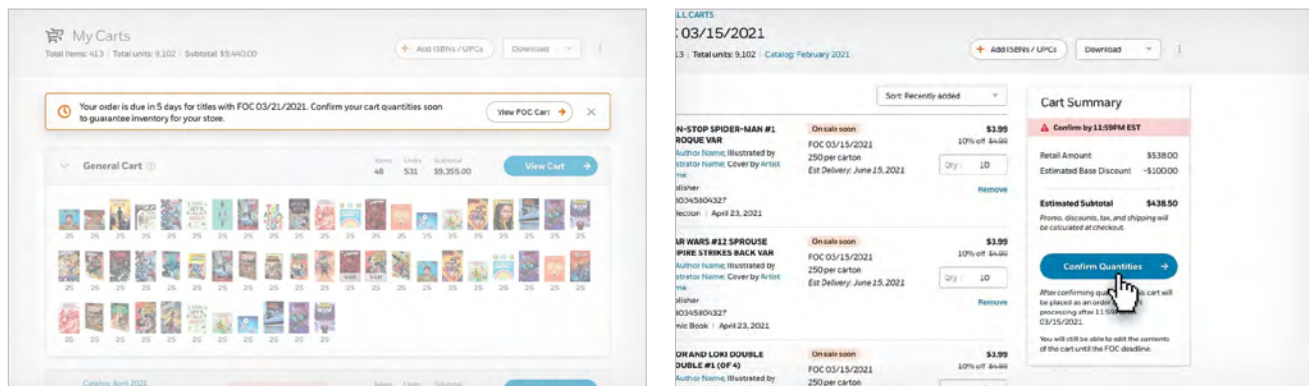

Managing Your Cart

Items added to your cart will be organized into a general cart for Penguin Random House titles and reorders, and FOC carts for items with a FOC date. You can click on the cart icon to access your cart from any screen.

FOC carts are grouped by location and deadline. If you're ordering for multiple locations, you can switch between them using the drop-down menu. You'll also see notifications about upcoming or past deadlines, so you can manage your carts and make sure you don't miss anything.

It's important to confirm your cart before the deadline, so your items are converted into an order. To do this, select the "Confirm Quantities" button from the Cart Summary box. You can still make changes to your cart until the deadline, but after that, your confirmed items will be locked in and can't be edited.

If you make changes to a confirmed cart, it is important that you don't forget to click the 'Confirm Updates' button to save your changes. If you don't confirm your updates before the deadline, you might not get the items you want.

Important things to remember:

- Make sure to confirm your cart before the deadline, so your items are converted into an order.
- After 11:59 EST on the FOC Date, your confirmed carts will be automatically converted into orders and begin processing.
- If you don't confirm your cart, it will be deleted, and you won't receive the items.
- You can still order items after the deadline, but you'll need to add them to your general cart and go through checkout.
- Ratio variants cannot be ordered after the deadline.
- Payment method can be updated at any time prior to the FOC deadline. Your credit card will not be charged until product is shipped.

Checking Out

Within check-out, you'll see your shipping address, order details, method of payment, order review, and checkout summary. Click "Place Order" to submit the order and receive a confirmation email.

Payment method can be updated at any time prior to the FOC deadline. Your credit card will not be charged until product is shipped. To make a change, select the confirmed FOC cart you would like to update from the My Carts page and click on View Payment & Order Details. Unconfirmed orders will need to be confirmed prior to entering payment method.

HOW TO ORDER for PRH Panels Catalog

Managing and Tracking Your Orders

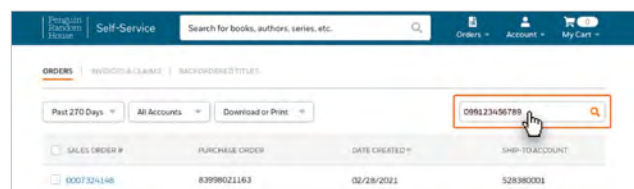

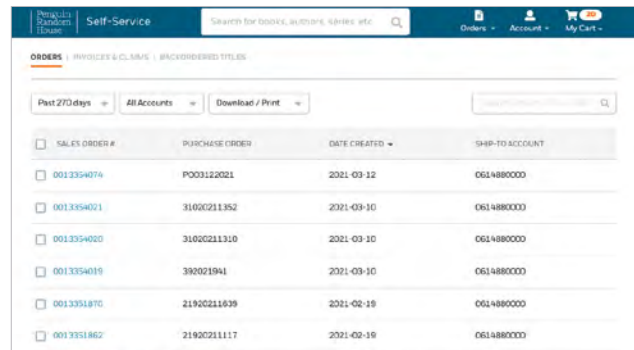

After your order has been placed, click on the Orders section to view all the information you'll need, including the sales order number, purchase order, date created, and ship-to account.

By default, all orders placed in the past 270 days will appear here, but you can also choose to view the past 30 or 60 days. If you need information on orders or invoices older than 270 days, just contact Customer Service and they'll be happy to help.

If you want more details about a specific order, click on the Sales Order number to view the Order Detail. Here, you'll find the order status, tracking information (if available), and the warehouse your items will ship from (or have already shipped from).

To find tracking information for an order, you want to go to the Orders tab. From here, enter the PO or Order Number from the invoice into the search bar, then, click on the order to view the tracking links. Keep in mind that there may be multiple shipments in an order, so you may need to know the items you're looking for to track them.

You can also search for tracking information using the UPC of the title you want to track. Just follow the same steps as above, but search by UPC. All orders containing that UPC will appear in the search results. If the title is on multiple orders, all orders will be listed.

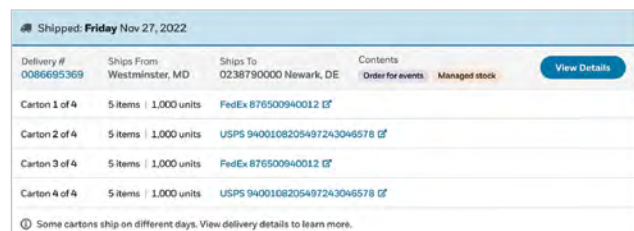

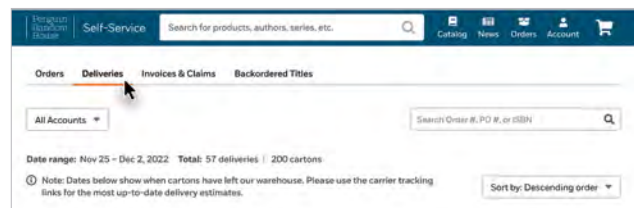

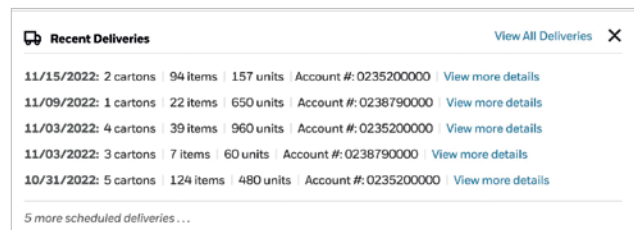

Delivery Details

On the home page, you'll see a list of your most recent deliveries, up to five, from the past 14 days.

If you want to see more information, just click on the "View All Deliveries" link. This will take you to the Deliveries page. Here, you can see the individual titles and quantities for each carton. You can also use the search bar to find a specific title by searching by title, ISBN, or UPC.

You'll also see links to the sales order and invoice numbers on this page. Keep in mind that if you have initials shipping before the month of on-sale, the invoice won't be available until the month of on-sale. But you'll still be able to see the sales order(s).

The Deliveries tab can also be accessed from the Orders dropdown. This page gives you an overview of your deliveries from the past 14 days. You can filter the information by location, and the date range at the top of the page will show you the actual delivery dates. You'll also see the total number of deliveries and cartons for this period.

Each delivery is listed by its ship date, and you can use the sort button to change the order. You'll see the delivery number, where it's shipping from and to, and the contents tags. These tags tell you what's in each carton, like Initials, Reorders, Managed stock, or Order for events.

If a delivery has multiple cartons, they'll be listed individually, and you can use the carrier link to track each one. For the most up-to-date information, it's best to use the carrier tracking link. The dates on this page show when the cartons left our warehouse.

You can search for specific deliveries using the search bar at the top of the screen. Search by delivery number, ISBN, PO number, and more. If you search by ISBN, PO, or order number, you'll see results from the past 14 days. If you search by delivery number, you'll see results from the past 18 months.
