RETAILER RESOURCE GUIDE • VOLUME 6 • SPRING 2026

Hello Retailers!

Welcome to the Spring/Summer 2026 edition of PRH Panels+ Retailer Resource Guide! As the name states, this is a guidebook for Retailers only—something you can keep behind the counter to reference easily when finding new recommendations for customers, browsing and ordering on PRHComics.com, putting together new shelves or displays, handselling products, and more!

This catalog covers key titles from various publishers that we think your customers will love. You'll find a complete listing of all the titles in our monthly digital PRH Panels catalog, as usual. We've also highlighted those evergreen titles that continually sell well, so you can have easy reference when stocking up for the next big launch or media moment. Our popular retailer interviews are back as well, packed with a ton of useful info: We spoke to Tommy Denesen of Most Wanted Comics about building sales through an online presence; Joe Murray of Captain Blue Hen Comics spoke to his success in the PRH Direct Market Partnership Program; And we asked Shannon Live of Bat City Comic Professionals how she brings in younger customers through engaging with her community.

Browse this catalog and share it with your staff to find titles that might have flown under your radar! 2025 was a huge year in comics, and we've got you covered with everything you need to catch your customers up and get them excited for 2026 and beyond! Stock up on the latest bestselling DC Compact Comics, pick up one of the many critically acclaimed titles in the Pantheon Graphic Library, and get the essentials in series like BRZRKR, Critical Role, and Marvel's Ultimate Universe. We also have brought back our "Like This, Try That" guides for Graphic Novels and Kids & YA titles. Use this to handsell a book to a customer that they might not have considered. And check out our Prose section to start building out your inventory of bestselling Fantasy and Science Fiction novels. In addition, we've collected upcoming East Asian style novel releases, including beloved series translated in English for the first time. These novels slot in perfectly with an existing Manga or East Asian comics section.

Mar has a secret. Sometimes, without warning, he falls out of the world. This would be an inconvenience if his life wasn't already such a drag. When he's gone, he finds himself in an extraordinary city. A city which is also a machine, endlessly crossing a shoreless ocean. A city of two halves: the bright, bustling spires above the waves, and the beast-haunted twilight halls below. And between, clowning along the rusting beach, a troupe of anarchic magpies with all the answers but none of the questions. Recipients of the Angoulême Sélection Officielle, GLAAD Award, and multiple Eisner Award nominations, creators Simon Spurrier and Mat as Bergara present a new fantasy masterpiece in the tradition of Coda and Step By Bloody Step, driving the comics medium into new, beautiful, baleful waters.

Before Mary Van Tassel terrorized the town of Sleepy Hollow with the devilish Headless Horseman, she was Sarah Archer—a young girl trying to survive her witch of a mother. Sarah and her twin are raised in the wild Western Wood, taught the ways of witchcraft, and forced to endure abuse and neglect. But a chance encounter with the hellish Hessian at the moment of his beheading lights a fire in Sarah, giving her the power to overcome those who have wronged her and grow into a fearsome witch.

Minotaur #1 Cover A Michael Dowling

Comic Script by SIMON SPURRIER;
Illustrator MICHAEL DOWLING;
Colorist SOFIE DODGSON;
Cover Design or Artwork by MICHAEL DOWLING

Four years ago, a U.S. government supercomputer triggered the Singularity—a sudden and historic explosion of technological advancement beyond imagination and control. Artificial intelligence became superintelligence. At least, it almost did. Within picoseconds, fail-safes kicked in. The plug was pulled on a limitless new existence by a ruling class desperate to tighten the reins on human progress. But in that brief moment, angry seeds of a kneecapped new age were transmitted through cables, waves, and thousands of networks. Now, terrifying beings and inexplicable events dot the globe, ushering in a new revolution.

Minotaur is the story of the future fighting back, the cynical photojournalist it's targeted as its new prophet, the no-nonsense ex-military muscle who watches her six, and the reformed tech bro privately bankrolling their secret international mission to expose it all.

Retailer Interview

Tommy Denesen // Most Wanted Comics

We spoke to Tommy Denesen of Most Wanted Comics in Minnesota about building an online presence and growing both in-store and online sales through content creation.

What strategies have helped you turn your online customers and YouTube subscribers into in-store customers and vice versa?

When people go to Most Wanted Comics, whether they are going to our store physically, or checking out our YouTube site, or other socials for that matter, it's about making a connection. It is important for us that they know they aren't just supporting a small business, they're also supporting a passion and a hobby. We're fans too! Platforms like YouTube help us to not only promote our store but talk about events or things happening in the hobby that interests us. That connection and link between comics as a business and comics as a hobby is what drives customers to our YouTube, or to our store. They know they are supporting a store who loves comics as much as they do and aren't just in it for the paycheck.

What crossover do you see between your in-store customers and your online buyers in terms of shopping habits?

At Most Wanted Comics, we try to dip our toes into a little bit of everything. We pride ourselves on having the best back issue selection in the Twin Cities, with products ranging from the golden age, all the way up to today's newest releases. But we also carry trade paperbacks and hardcovers, as well as the newest collectibles, and trading cards like Pokemon, Magic the Gathering, and One Piece. At a location like ours, we see a lot of walk-in traffic, those with a budget of $20-$50 dollars. Most of those people don't connect with us online. Today's customer usually goes for Pokemon, the newest DC Absolute title, or a new Marvel Legend off the wall. Items like those are great for in-store purchases, but not so great for eBay. As we all know, selling on eBay isn't free, and the fees that go along with selling on that platform make it difficult to sell lower priced items, not to mention the fact that margins on Pokemon, new collectibles, and new comics make it tough for an eBay setting. With that in mind, eBay is where higher priced items are usually sold. It's rare these days to see someone walk in and buy a $500 comic off the wall, in-store. It's not the kind of traffic we see in-store, but we do have customers look at product on eBay and come in to pick up their purchase. On eBay however, a platform we have been selling on for over a decade, and have built a reputation on, has much more juice in that tank. So, to circle back to the original question. I would say for us, most of our product that is on eBay, finds its way onto the floor, however, that doesn't mean it will move on the floor.

Retailer Interview

What differences do you see between comic buyers and collectible buyers, and where do their interests overlap?

Personally, I see tons of overlap between comic buyers and collectible buyers. Specifically, overlap between primarily new comic collectors, and collectible buyers. The biggest sellers for collectibles are the main Hasbro lines, the main McFarlane lines, and Jada Toys. Higher-end stuff like S.H. Figuarts are popular as well, but the Hasbro/McFarlane stuff is great for collectors on a budget. In my experience, a lot of comic collectors that buy mostly new stuff off the rack tend to be interested in collectibles as well. We have several customers who collect, for example, Superman comics, but also any Superman collectible to display with their comics.

Why did you choose eBay instead of other online selling platforms such as Shopify or Amazon? Would you consider expanding to other platforms or services like Whatnot?

For us personally, we chose to sell primarily on eBay because it's what we are most familiar with, and most established on. We have been selling on eBay for over a decade, well before we opened a brick-and-mortar location. We've gained a specific following on eBay, and that following isn't something we want to just throw away. That being said, platforms like Whatnot have taken over lately, not just in comics, but in cards, and collectibles in general. We are always looking into expanding into other revenues. Staying relevant means positioning yourself where the customers are, and platforms like Whatnot are definitely one of those areas.

How do you decide which marketing tools to focus on when building your in-store and online presence?

Most Wanted Comics operates primarily on Facebook, Instagram, and YouTube, as well as our constantly updated website, mostwantedcomics.com. Over the last year however, we have tried to move more into short-form video content. We've started putting more "shorts" on YouTube, "reels" on Instagram, and have been thinking about moving toward TikTok as well. Most of our customers, however, are still on Facebook, which is where most of our marketing sits. Again, I think it all comes down to moving where the people are. Short form video content is the most effective strategy right now, so many companies are focusing more and more on it. We took a hard look at our content calendar and realized we needed to do the same. So, while our roots stay strong in our established platforms, we recognize expansion means survival and are looking to make changes. However, this doesn't mean we've abandoned local outlets. We still stay very close and connected to local news and community stations/outlets in Bloomington, as part of our mission is still giving back to our community.

How do you decide what content you want to create on your YouTube channel? What role do you think YouTube and live streaming could play in building your customer base?

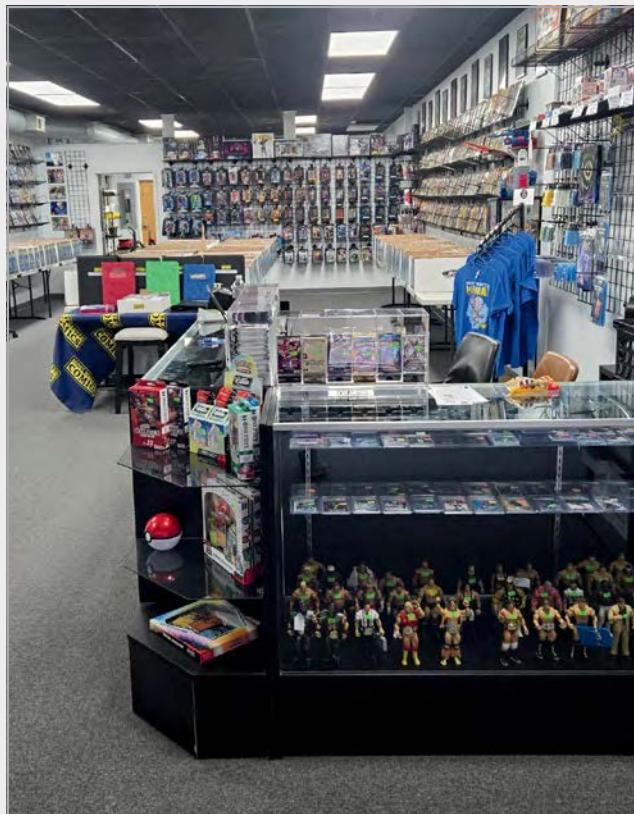

When it comes to YouTube, we wanted to have our cake and eat it too. We wanted a platform to promote our business, but also an avenue to discuss what we were passionate about when it came to comics and pop culture. We opened a comic book store because we love everything about comics. One of the best parts of owning a store is the multitude of discussions and debates you can have around weekly releases, the latest TV show or your favorite version of a character. We wanted our YouTube channel to reflect that kind of environment.

I also think an environment like that is relatable and appealing to customers. What I've found over the last number of years is that people want a place to not only buy comics, but LIVE comics. They want the discussions, they want to hear the debates, they want to buy from stores that are as passionate about the medium as they are. Creating content with that idea in mind has been crucial to growing our presence and community.

What advice would you give to other retailers who want to build or expand their online presence?

The advice I would give to other retailers is to find a relatable voice. Find a presence and personality that doesn't just attract customers but speaks to them. A lot of people that come into comic book stores are looking for a place where they can not only be themselves but be somewhere that doesn't judge them or shame them for their passions/hobbies, something that is still all too common in our society today. I remember when I was a kid in the late 2000s/early 2010s, and I went into a few comic stores where the owners working there seemed uninterested and completely separated from the product they were selling. Back then, I was so stoked about talking to people who loved the same things I did, but the store workers seemed disengaged and angry. At the time, it completely changed my view of the hobby, and those working in it. Now, while I'm not the owner of Most Wanted Comics, I wanted this store to be the exact opposite of that environment. I wanted to be a place customers WANTED to go to for comics. Be a place that people want to come and see. Be the place where customers can relate and talk freely about shared interests. I wanted to be a destination, not just a store. Using online platforms and social media to make yourself known as that place is maybe one of the best things you can do to form stable and long-lasting customer relationships.

Cora Reims once embraced a vision of pure light—an angelic messenger who left behind a terrible miracle: her son, Jordy. Despite his angelic countenance, it soon becomes apparent that Jordy is a plague upon the Earth, spreading death and cruelty wherever he goes. After years of torment and generational shame for her transgression, Cora receives a divine revelation on the eve of Jordy's eighteenth birthday: God has finally heard her pleas and Heaven demands the destruction of her devastatingly powerful child.

As plagues descend on the town of Enoch and the townspeople's faith fractures under fear, Cora must now confront her past, her purpose, and the divine horror she once mistook for grace with the guidance of a mysterious, new stranger.

Illustrated by HAYDEN SHERMAN

Written by Dan Watters, with art by Hayden Sherman, each three-part story is a self-contained detective case rooted in the trauma and transformation of Gotham. ### Wonder Woman Historia: The Amazons: Absolute Edition

Written by KELLY SUE DECONNICK;
Illustrated by PHIL JIMENEZ, GENE HA and NICOLA SCOTT

Before Wonder Woman, there were the Amazons. This is their legend.

In Wonder Woman Historia: The Amazons, Kelly Sue DeConnick and three master artists deliver a sweeping, visually stunning saga of rebellion, birth, and divine justice. As the Olympian goddesses rise against patriarchal tyranny, they create the Amazons—a society of women born to resist, to protect, and to change the world.

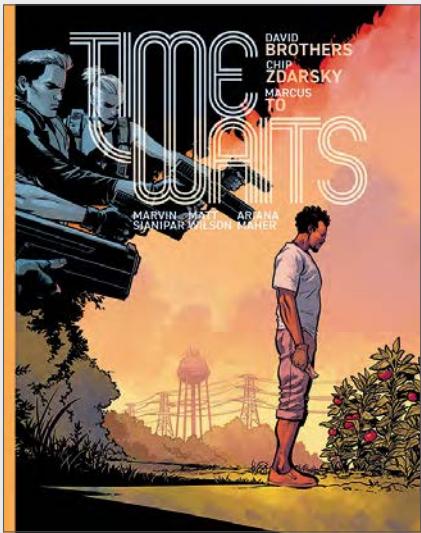

Each chapter of this Absolute Edition is a gallery of visual splendor: Phil Jimenez's ornate myth-weaving, Gene Ha's lush allegory, and Nicola Scott's grounded drama coalesce into a timeless origin for Themyscira. This is more than a Wonder Woman prelude—it's a foundational myth rendered in gold.

The Event Horizon was a revolutionary spaceship designed for one mission: faster-than-light travel with a top-secret, experimental gravity drive. But upon activating the device, the ship journeyed across the borders of Hell itself. In a nightmarish realm of torments beyond imagining, Captain Kilpack and the crew of the Event Horizon must resist all manner of demonic forces—including Paimon, the eyeless King of Hell, and their own descents into madness and bloodlust—if they've any chance of escaping back to their own world.

Abandon all hope and board the Event Horizon with multiple Eisner Award winner Christian Ward (Batman: City of Madness) and powerhouse sci-fi artist Tristan Jones (Aliens: Defiance, Tales of the TMNT) in this unbelievable story of the true and final fate of the original Event Horizon crew.

Beneath the Trees Where Nobody Sees (DM)

Written by PATRICK HORVATH

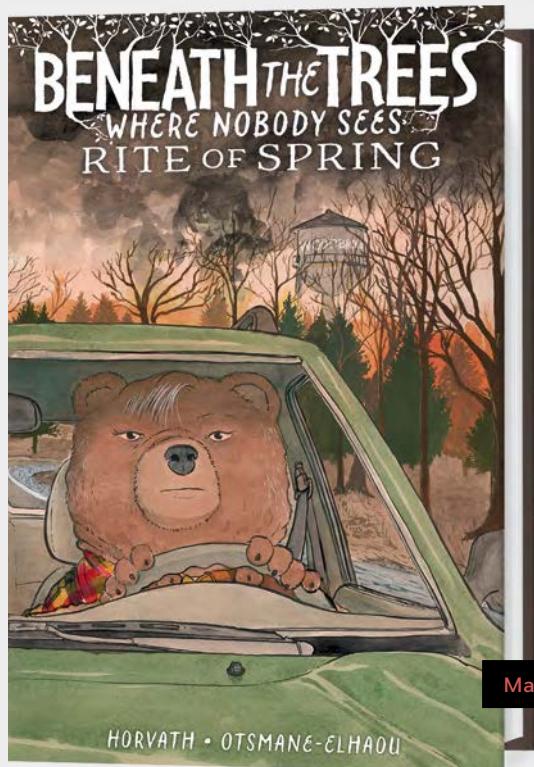

For Samantha Strong, this isn't just advice, it's survival. She's Woodbrook's most reliable shop owner, its warmest smile, and beneath all that fur...its most efficient serial killer. The big city beyond the evergreens has more than enough prey; Sam just wants her tranquil life, her tidy storefront, and the comforting lull of cedar branches and apple-pie breezes.

But tranquility shatters when a fellow Woodbrook resident turns up savaged by an unknown hand. Suddenly the gossip swirls, panic rises, and Sheriff Patterson is on the prowl, too close for comfort.

Sam knows one thing: if someone else is killing in her woods, they're not just a threat to her routine. They're a threat to everything she's built. And she'll do whatever it takes to uncover the truth before Woodbrook tears itself apart.

From writer-artist Patrick Horvath comes a darkly delightful thriller, already crowned the 2025 Harvey Book of the Year.

A prescient and optimistic satire about humanity's future!

Gigs

Written by MARK MOSEDALE

AI. took the work. Gigs replaced jobs. Ordinary people are left to scrape together lives in a world that's no longer built for them.

In a frighteningly near future where Basic Income is supplemented by gig work assigned by "the app"...a lonely young worker seeks escape through music. A street artist makes art by night and paints over it by day. A has-been detective chases a case into a forgotten world. A drug runner makes a long, strange delivery.

Two creators weave together six divergent chapters into an extraordinary graphic novel. Gigs is both a powerful warning about the oppressive world to come and a defiant celebration of the humanity that will sprout up in the cracks.

Welcome to the afterlife. Hijinks and heartbreak await as this fan-favorite online comic becomes a gorgeous graphic novel!

After awakening in the middle of nowhere, a young man is forced into the Hotel Limbo as its new bellboy. Faced with magical masks, giant cats, a mysterious staff, and a hotel that just won't sit still, BB will soon learn that helping with "baggage" means something very different when the guests are dead.

In this series debut, writer Ben Harel teams up with 27 artists to breathe life into a story about death. As comedy dances with drama and mystery, every tonal shift and blurred line is accentuated by an ever-changing visual style, creating a genre-bending medley of deadly adventures.

A witty comic-of-age story for anyone who's ever wanted to be in a band!

Punk'nheads

Written by DAVE BAKER;
Illustrated by NICOLE GOUX

This band plays together, lives together...and unfortunately two of them are sleeping together.

Hannah Lipsky isn't sure what's happening. She dreamed of becoming a fine art painter, but after breaking up with her girlfriend, she's suddenly dropped out of art school, moved into a flophouse, and gotten roped into singing in a campy horror-punk band. With costumes. To make things even more complicated, she might be hooking up with her housemate/bandmate/high school crush, Jerry. Wherever this is leading, it's going to be messy.

Critically acclaimed, Eisner-nominated creators Nicole Goux and Dave Baker join forces for a raucous and revealing new graphic novel about making music, making mistakes, facing your past, and choosing your future.

We Are Pan

Written by ANDRE FRATTINO;
Illustrated by YASMIN FLORES MONTANEZ

Family or freedom? Discover the astonishing history of the mass evacuation of Cuban children, leaving communism—and their loved ones—behind. We Are Pan is based on the true story of Operación Pedro Pan, a joint effort between the U.S. government and the Catholic Welfare Bureau to evacuate 14,000 children from Cuba to the U.S. between 1960 and 1962. With the rise of communism following Fidel Castro's revolution, parents feared for their children's future and, through this secret operation. These children (later referred to as "Pedro Pans") would be distributed across the U.S., mostly living in foster homes. In many cases, these children never saw their families again, and their lives would be changed forever. This is their story.

In this graphic novel based on a true story, a group of high schoolers in Chicago work to overturn the system-wide ban of Marjane Satrapi's Persepolis.

At one high school: copies of a certain book are no longer allowed. Now it's all public schools. One thing is clear: The book, which tells a story of resistance against authoritarian power, is seen as a threat to ban.

As the ban becomes known, the students rise up. They organize a school-wide walkout and library sit-in. They publicize the banning in every forum of media. And most of all, they get everyone they know to read the banned book.

Based on interviews with students and teachers who were affected and written by the librarian who exposed key information about the Chicago Public Schools censorship decision, Wake Now in the Fire is a fictionalized account of a true event. With illustrations by Alex Award-winner AJ Dungo, this graphic novel is an inspiring portrayal of student activism.

THE BANNED BOOK THAT SET CHICAGO ABLAZE...

"PERSEPOLIS stands in defiant resistance alongside other classics of its kind . . . it remains urgent, necessary reading."

—Kirkus Reviews

Marjane Satrapi's
PERSEPOLIS
is a classroom staple, a feminist manifesto, one of the most beloved graphic novels of all time—and now at the center of the new graphic nonfiction Wake Now in the Fire.

A first-time collection of some of the best from the early days of webcomics!

Creased Comics

Written by BRAD NEELY

Hungry bridge trolls, limousine werewolves, and other absurd characters populate these delightfully irreverent gag cartoons from the golden days of webcomics.

Beginning at the dawn of the new millennium, the animator Brad Neely materialized as one of the funnier voices on the internet. YouTube hits like the foul-mouthed George Washington and his demented audiobook retelling of Harry Potter in Wizard People.

During this ascent, Neely was also quietly mastering another form, the webcomic, where he spliced together historical figures, fairy tales, wildlife, and absurd gag setups into truly laugh-out-loud cartoons: hungry bridge trolls ready to devour local "chappies"; Caesar's real killer (Jeffrey); the Boo-Boo Maker; limousine werewolves; superheroes trying and failing to rescue Christ; and more eye-blasting thrills.

One of the bloodiest and longest lasting revolutionary movements in Latin America described in graphic form. Rupay, in Quechua, means ardor, fire. On May 17th, 1980, the Shining Path, a Maoist group in Peru, burned the records in a small town in the Ayacucho region to ignite the revolution that would set all of Peru aflame. This graphic novel retells the events relating to the start of the conflict and the political violence that continued throughout. Cossio Guevara charts the first subversive acts by the Shining Path, the government response, the escalation of violence, and the brutality and impunity with which the repression was carried out, as well as brutal burning of polling in Chuschi, the Lucanamarca massacre, the mass graves in Putis, and the massacres of Aranhuay and Paccha.

This graphic novel is the chronicle of the tragedy and barbarism that challenged the poorest and most vulnerable members of Peruvian society. This book immortalizes the victims and recounts these events so that this tragic history is not lost to obscurity or repeated.

Retailer Interview

Joe Murray // Captain Blue Hen Comics

Joe Murray of Captain Blue Hen Comics in Delaware gave us some insights into how he has utilized the PRH Direct Market partnership program to grow sales in his store.

Why did you join the PRH Direct Market partnership program?

PRH gives me an extra 2% discount on my monthly periodicals that allows me leeway to take a risk on trying new products. I can gamble a few hundred dollars if I'm saving a few thousand. The resources of a big enterprise such as PRH gives me so many tools that were previously unavailable in the comic market. I value resources like the PRH sales team, the promotional and sales tools, the monthly catalog meetings, and the curated and personalized suggestions, plus value added bundles like with Lore Olympus and Penguin Classic Comics and signed bookplates and other promotions.

What would you say has been the biggest benefit to your business since joining the program?

I have changed my ordering habits from a "mile wide inch deep, just in time ordering" conservative policy to a more curated "kilometer wide, fathom deep, find the top sales velocity and stay ahead of it" optimistic philosophy that is data driven and maximizes sales. This is a direct result of the success of many of the pre-pack display offers from PRH. I have been able to add prose titles, discover the ceiling on books I would've ordered single copies on, add more signed books to our mix, and help grow our Book Club. I was also able to expand the variety of store events (like Bluey and Godzilla Day) and build a wider and deeper bench of titles for off-site events.

Since joining the program, what new titles or products have you experimented with in your store? What have been the most popular new titles with your customers?

Bluey, Beneath the Trees, Lore Olympus, How to Talk to Your Cat about Gun Safety, Walk in the Woods (Winnie the Pooh), Romantasy titles, Sci-fi prose, Mad Libs, Little Golden Books, Out of Print brand bookmarks, pins and totes, cookbooks, Gravity Falls books, Moth Keeper and Song of you and I, Dungeon Crawler Carl; and more pride and physiodiversity titles as well as RPG-adjacent product and titles. I did a Bestsellers of 2025 list and was surprised to find 9 of 30 titles were prose. I found that when ordering Little Golden Books we should go beyond superheroes- our bestsellers have been Taylor Swift, Ruth Bader Ginsberg, Jaws, Alien, Bluey, Betty White, nostalgia movies, and the Kelce Brothers. Many folks are buying them as nostalgia gifts more than reading material for kids. They're the cost of a greeting card so lean into that—market them as a greeting card and gift in one.

What strategies do you implement to get your customers to diversify their buying after you've brought new titles in?

We ask for feedback from the customers when they try a new title, we use "staff pick" signage with catchy loglines ("It's Dexter meets Paddington"), we believe in the product, we use themed and highlighted displays, and I listen to the sales pitches and read sales sheets from my sales rep.

What are some challenges you face in diversifying the titles you stock in your store?

Staff knowledge and genre racking—Our prose section isn't quite big enough yet for sorting by genre but a bit too big to sort alphabetically; we're shy a manga specialist, so we have a knowledge gap there; trying to add product beyond my own tastes. Oh, and wishing I could face out every title!

Retailer Interview

Joe Murray // Captain Blue Hen Comics

Why do you think it is important for Direct Market retailers to diversify their stock beyond single-issue comics?

Your customers are looking to support you beyond their weekly periodical habit; we're seeing so many new faces; you want to have titles attractive to companion shoppers; you want to be welcoming to anyone who comes in your store by making them comfortable seeing something they are familiar with beyond capes and creatures. Also, the generations coming up were raised on Dog Man, Manga, video games and streaming; they got their superhero fix in movies so they often don't need the comics and are looking for something else. It's easy to lose yourself in preparing for next week—you need to keep any eye also on the next 5 or 10 years.

What advice would you give to other partner retailers so they can get the most out of the PRH Direct Market Partnership program?

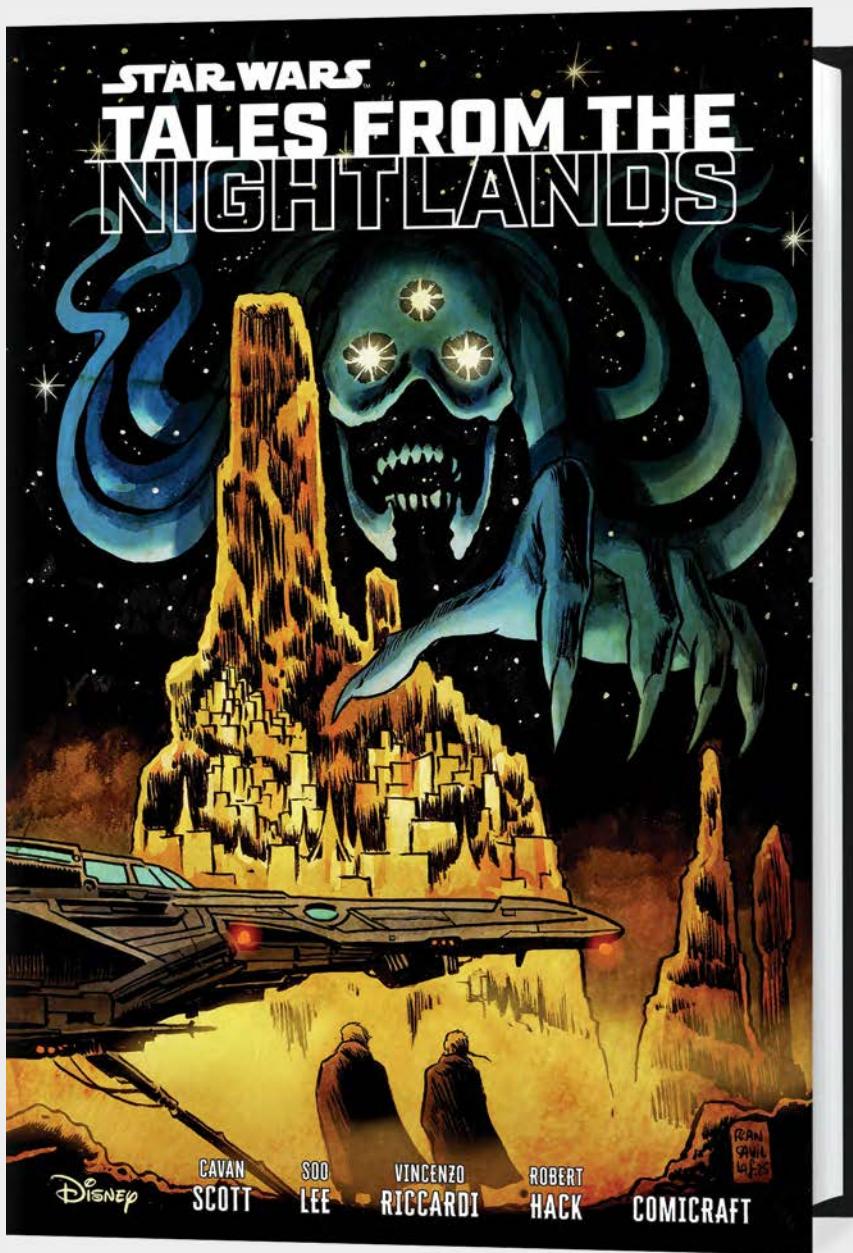

Talk to your sales rep and set up regular check-ins—your sales rep is far better at making recommendations than any AI algorithm; if you are planning a store event or book club speak to them in advance for any support, title suggestions, add-ons or assistance they can offer; read your e-mails and don't dismiss out of hand promotional packages like the display pre-packs with invoice credits or the signed book plates like with Tongues—I would've never ordered that title at all, and certainly not that many copies, but we took a minimal risk and sold through them all rather quickly. If we hadn't gambled on the Song of You and I display we would've never discovered how much product Katie O'Neill moves for us (Moth Keeper is in our top 20); The direct market and Partnership Team want you to win, and I have found them as valuable as anyone on my staff. Don't get too hung up on the number of units requirement—it takes time to build; but there are low-cost items you can use to bolster your numbers like bookmarks (Dear God, don't underestimate the power of bookmarks—people are so excited to get them and buy them—ask any librarian). We carry the Out of Print Bookmarks and sell them at cost as an add on if someone buys a graphic novel. Hands down our bestseller is the Sesame Street Grover Monster at the End of the book bookmark that outsells any other by at least 2 to 1. Even if I don't sell the bookmarks, they are amazing marketing tools for librarians, teachers and customers. The cost of buying a couple hundred extra book marks, Golden Books, or Level readers to use as giveaways is still a fraction of the overall savings the extra discount brings and the personalized and curated help I get from The Partnership Program. The Program grows my sales and I've got the data to prove it. Each year our percentage of Non-Comic Core titles has grown despite upticks in sales of periodical comics and the adding of more comic publishers to PRH's portfolio.

Chernobyl, Life, and Other Disasters

A Graphic Memoir

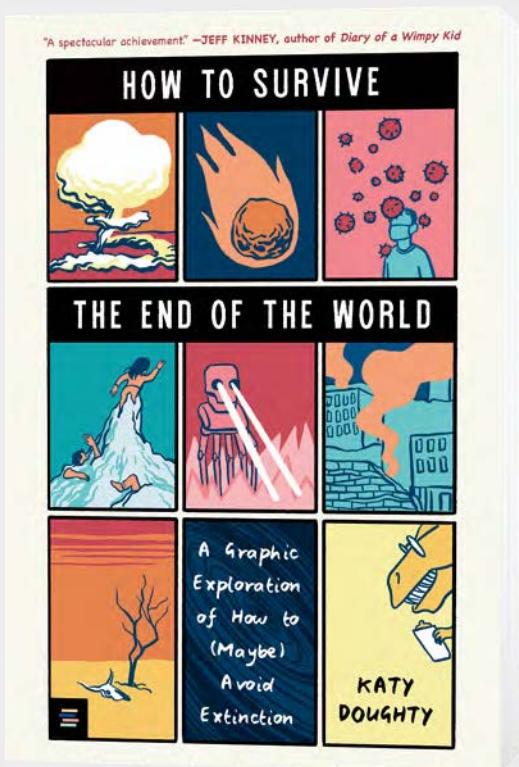

Written by YEVGENIA NAYBERG;
Illustrated by YEVGENIA NAYBERG

The years before Genya's eleventh birthday bring plenty to distract her. Nothing in Soviet Ukraine is quite as it seems; adults mock the government, but only in private; and her classmates are terrified of American bomb strikes. And that's all before April 26, 1986, when Genya's police officer neighbor gets called to an emergency in a town she's never heard of: Chernobyl.

A graphic memoir account of creator Yevgenia Nayberg's childhood, Chernobyl, Life, and Other Disasters is both deeply personal and a glimpse into broader Soviet intelligentsia experiences. Young readers curious about life elsewhere, particularly in the face of disaster, will find ample details to devour, while those dreaming of a creative life will take inspiration from Genya's perseverance.

Dungeon Crawl at the Haunted Mall

Written by JENDIA GAMMON

Delve into the gnarly guts of a long-dead mall in this gloriously weird and whacked-out romp, where friendship, 80s music, and food court slushies are your weapons of choice against spandexed supernatural creeps.

In the late 80s, a toxic spill rendered your local mall too hazardous to occupy—or at least, that's what your parents told you. In reality, the spill was the work of Vaaldrant, a warlock from another dimension who's been transforming mall employees into horrifying supernatural creatures ever since. You and your friends decide to film a video for your vlog channel, but when you meet up at the entrance, you find that your friend Drea is missing! Will you delve into the depths of the mall to rescue Drea from Vaaldrant? Or will his team of mutant mall workers get you first?

If you decide to wait until dawn, turn to page 6. Whatever you decide, be careful—spying is a dangerous business. Unfortunately for the reader, YOU are that stowaway.

It's your turn to sit at the table with your friendly neighborhood Game Master Griffin McElroy as he guides you down paths both hilarious and harrowing. Two star-crossed lovers navigate a world where sea levels have risen and society is sharply divided. Paolo lives in the Flats, a dangerous, water-logged community where families survive by salvaging materials from skyscrapers hidden just beneath the ocean's surface—remnants of a world before sea levels rose. Scavenging the depths comes with its risks, but when Paolo discovers a suitcase of designer clothes, he decides to fulfill his dream: To spend one night in the Uplands, a place of privilege, excess, and freedom. There he meets Jules and her friends, and what begins as a single night of reckless adventure turns into a secret double life—and a seemingly impossible romance that forces Paolo to reckon with who he is, where he belongs, and what love really demands.

Rendered in vibrant watercolor illustrations that bring every scene to vivid life, Salvage is as much a visual masterpiece as it is a moving tale of love and belonging. Renée Nault's atmospheric and luminous hand-painted art draws readers into Paolo and Jules' world, promising an unforgettable coming of age story.

In a fantasy world, several centuries after “The Great Flood,” Sister Wangi and younger brother Banyu live in a sea-village. Wangi has a special bond with the Great Whales that visit their sea-village and they allow Wangi to draw on their backs. Sometimes they return with new drawings on them. Wangi believes that there are other sea-villages or island settlements scattered around and that they are sending her messages but, none of the elders listen to her.

One day, a new whale arrives in the village alone, wounded, and dying—this whale has a new drawing on her back that doesn’t look like the previous drawings. Inspired by this mystery, Wangi vows to investigate. Although forbidden by her parents and the village elders, Wangi—along with a stowaway, who happens to be her brother Banyu—embark on a wondrous journey to investigate where the drawings are coming from only to find much more than they were expecting.

Poe never imagined that during her senior year of high school she would be attacked by a pair of vampires and turned into one herself. And she never dreamed her longtime crush, Jolie—who seemed to maybe actually like Poe back—would turn out to be a slayer.

When Jolie drives a wooden stake into her chest, Poe's heart is broken at the betrayal. But somehow she survives the slaying, and when she awakens, it's unclear which is stronger inside her: the thirst for blood, or the thirst for revenge on Jolie.

Now the hunter has become the hunted. But, when the girls come face to face again, Jolie seems overjoyed that Poe is still alive. Can a vampire and a slayer ever be more to each other than predator and prey?

The townspeople, eager for excitement, are abuzz with curiosity about the mysterious circus that is rumored to feature a terrifying monster. That evening, Otto, the narrator, takes his place among the eager crowd inside the dimly lit circus tent. The air crackles with anticipation, and as the curtains slowly part, the audience gasps—but not for the reason they expected.

The so-called “monster” on stage is, in fact, a human child. Meanwhile, the onlookers in the crowd are actually monsters—both terrifying and grotesque! Otto, whose face is finally revealed, is also a hairy monster. Little by little, Otto and the human child get to know each other, and change the way they both look at the world.

The Dream Thieves: The Graphic Novel

Written by MAGGIE STIEFVATER and SAS MILLEDGE;
Illustrated by SAS MILLEDGE

Waking the corpse road should have led Blue and the Raven Boys straight to Glendower, the Welsh king rumored to be sleeping beneath the mountains of Henrietta.

But instead, the forest of Cabeswater has disappeared, energy hums and sputters beneath the town, and the Raven Boys' search is at a dead end. Ronan's dreams may be the key to finding Glendower, but none of the Raven Boys are prepared for what will be unleashed in Ronan's desperate attempt to finally control his power.

Reimagined as a stunning full-color graphic novel adapted and illustrated by Sas Milledge, Dream Thieves blurs the line between reality and nightmare until they are one and the same.

The fourth and final installment of the New York Times bestselling graphic novel series!

Retailer Interview

Shannon Live // Bat City Comic Professionals

We asked Shannon Live of Bat City Comic Professionals in Florida about how she grows her customer base, particularly younger customers, and uses community engagement to increase sales.

In the last year, have you noticed any patterns in the types of new customers coming to your store and what their buying habits are?

This year has been a year of growth for a lot of the comic market, and we are definitely seeing the effects of that in our shop as well. New customers are finding the comic medium through social media platforms like TikTok and YouTube. We find a lot of these new customers are discovering series like the Absolute line from DC, the Ultimate line from Marvel, and the Energon Universe from Image Skybound. They are also drawn to new formats like the DC compact line. All of these things are bringing new, younger people into comic shops for the first time. The incredible thing about these new readers is that they are really excited about the medium in general and are willing to not only try the books they came in for, but other things people suggest to them while they are there. And they come back, not just the next week for new releases, but the next day and the day after that, because they like having a space to talk about everything they are consuming with people who are also equally excited.

What efforts do you take to attract new and younger returning customers?

We spend a lot of time out in our community. Whether that's at minor league baseball games, participating in city-wide events, or just popping up at local establishments to hand out free comics, we meet our community where they are to remind them that, "hey, comic shops are still out there and there's new books every week." We also have our weekly show, Wine Down Your Weekend that talks about every new indie and small press title that released that week. It's a really helpful booktalking tool for people to see what books are out there and why they might be interested in them. We get a lot of new customers through this, as well as current customers adding new titles to their pull lists.

As for younger customers, we really see them coming in for our programming and falling in love with comics through that. We have a different free event for children every Saturday that is geared around either reading, writing, or art. Each of these events brings in anywhere from a dozen to a hundred kids, some first-time attendees and others repeating every weekend. And while the events are fun, community events, they are also themed around specific comics which helps us get kids excited about the related book or other titles in our kids' cave. With our kids' club, the Story Spelunkers, kids can sign up to receive discounts on their purchases. Plus, parents can sign their kids up for a kid subscription so they can get their favorite single-issue comics just like an adult with a pull list can. Kids love getting to pick up their books from their box, and it helps us teach them all about the way comics are collected in the process.

What titles and products do younger customers have the most interest in? Have you had success in converting them into readers of other titles?

As I said earlier, the college-aged kids are really loving the Absolute line right now. What's great about them is they are falling into it fresh, so they are excited about the creators as much as the titles, it makes it really easy to show them other titles those creators have worked on and have them branch into those titles as well.

For the elementary and middle-grade readers, they are almost always looking for Dog Man, Wings of Fire, or Sonic the Hedgehog, but we find that each of those serves as great jumping in points. We know that a kid who loves Dog Man will probably also love Investigators, Diary of a Wimpy Kid, or even Last Kids on Earth and because of that we merchandise them all together in a section called Dog Man and Friends. We also have a wall display that is a perpetual Scholastic Book Fair display, so that you can easily find fan-favorites like Baby-Sitters Club, Amulet, Wings of Fire, Goosebumps, etc. Our Kids' Cave is also broken down by reading grade/age level so that it's easy for guardians to see what other titles are age-appropriate when their young readers want a new book. We firmly believe that part of the reading process is in the shelf discovery, and we think that for kids that is an even bigger moment. There's this ownership in the "I found it," moment that leads to an even grander experience when they read the book because it's THEIR adventure. They chose it. Moments like these become a developmental memory that causes them to keep comics as a core part of their life.

Shannon Live // Bat City Comic Professionals

Bat City Comic Professionals has a very impressive line-up of events, school and library programs, and customers services. How do you manage the workload of these programs with the day-to-day of running a brick-and-mortar comic shop?

Thank you. Since our store is also a 501(C)(3) non-profit organization, there is a lot that goes into creating and running all of the programming we do. Up until recently, the store and events were run almost exclusively by the two of us, so it can definitely feel like a lot at times. For us, part of the way we keep the events running is that we have a set schedule for the in-store events that we stick to every month. We know that Zine Night is the first Wednesday of the month, Kids Comic Creation Workshops are the third Saturday, Ladies and Non-Binary Nerd Night is the third Thursday, etc.. Having an easy rotation for the standard day-to-day events helps balance the schedule for everything else. Beyond that, fitting in school and library programming takes a lot of support from each other. If I have a school visit on a Wednesday, I spend extra time on Tuesday making sure every subscriber's box is absolutely perfect, that any special orders are well labeled, and that Matt knows where I put everything so he isn't surprised by anything when he's on the floor by himself during the busiest part of the week. During those extremely busy months, like April when we have up to four events/school visits a day until after Free Comic Book Day, we really have to ensure that each thing is planned out down to the minute so that we can keep ourselves, the shop, and our events running smoothly. There's a lot of after-hours prep or store refilling that keeps it moving, but sometimes those are the most fun nights we have. We also are incredibly lucky to have some awesome volunteers that come in to help out with our larger events, or who stop by just to help make bags and boards. They are definitely the secret superheroes. Best tip I can give anyone is to invest in the social capital of your community and build that network of super friends.

Why is it important for a comics retailer to connect with younger people and customers?

The phrase "children are our future" really resonates in an industry like ours. As an industry that focuses so much on the longevity of the customers we have, and on the need for recurring interactions, the ability to connect with the next generation of readers is not only important, it's vital. We need to find a way to instill a love for our medium into every child that picks up Dog Man and show them that there's even more waiting for them inside the comic shop. And because of creators like Dav Pilkey, these young readers are already passionate about the stories they like and about making stories of their own, so there's already this tether to get them into it. It's up to us to show them what comes next, to lay the foundation for the comic shop being their favorite place, and to ensure that we have another generation that finds themselves in the panels of a comic.

What advice would you give to other retailers who are looking for new ways to attract younger customers?

Find a way to create an experience. When it comes to young people, elementary age all the way to college, they want the experience. They want to connect with someone behind the counter as they talk about the books they read, they want to get hands on as they create a craft or a comic of their own, they want to be a part of a community. If you want to attract the younger customers, you have to be the place they want to go when they want something to do, or when they feel down, or when they want to show their friends the coolest thing they've ever seen. Become the center of your community, and watch that develop into more than you can ever imagine.

East Asian Comics Glossary

Manhwa: Korean comics, read left-to-right. In Korea, digital comics dominate sales, so many manhwa are formatted for digital reading (vertical scrolling) and adapted for print.

Manhua: Chinese comics, reading format varies left-to-right or right-to-left. Due to strict censorship laws from the Cultural Revolution, it has been rare for manhua to be legally published outside of China until very recently.

Donghua refers to animated shows made in China, Taiwan, & Hong Kong.

Webtoons: Originating in South Korea, webtoons are digital comics that are formatted for vertical scrolling on smartphones. The term has been popularized online and now refers to digital comics from various creators/countries and is not limited to South Korean manhwa.

Web Comics: Refers to digital comics that are formatted in page-turn style (typically Western style L-to-R), rather than vertical scrolling.

Light Novels (aka LNs) are a type of Japanese novel that typically have a shorter page count (similar to novellas). In Japan, LNs are commonly marketed toward teens and young adults, but in the US and other English language countries, readership is crossover teen/adult. Like standard novels, light novels span across a variety of genres.

Danmei is a fiction genre originating from China that centers romanticized relationships of love and attraction between men. Danmei novels are typically first serialized on webnovel sites.

Webnovels are novels serialized by chapter online. Many novels, comics, live action dramas, and animated shows produced in China are based off popular webnovels.

Kids: Titles that are marketed for Kids and are suitable for All Ages (also called “Kodomo” or “Kodomomuke”).

Shojo: Primarily marketed to teen girls. Genres often include coming of age, romance, magical girls, and feature young girl protagonists.

Shonen: Primarily marketed to teen boys. Genres often include coming of age, action and adventure, and features a teen boy protagonist or hero.

Josei: Primarily marketed to older teen/young women. Series often feature young adult women and tend to show more realistic interpersonal relationships (as opposed to shojo's often idealized ones) and can cover more mature or darker subjects.

Seinen: Primarily marketed to older teen/young men. Series often feature more mature themes, including sex and/or violence, and young adult or adult male protagonists. In some series, images may be more graphic (gore, partial nudity).

Rated Mature (18+): Can include titles that have mature, edgy, and/or “ecchi,” erotic content. This category can be compared to what HBO/Cinemax is to network TV. Ecchi is generally not perceived as pornography by fans, and the level of explicitness depends on the series. Some series with no erotic content are rated mature due to depictions of sexual assault, violence, gore, or other mature themes.

Autobio/Essay: Nonfiction manga is trending, particularly autobio/memoir, also referred to as essay manga, which draws on the author's own life experiences. Common topics include gender and sexuality, mental health, substance abuse, family life and pets, food, and travel.

Award Winners: There are many manga-specific awards recognized in Japan (Japan Cartoonists Association Award, Tezuka Osamu Cultural Award, etc.) and some International awards (International Manga Award). Graphic novel industry awards outside of Japan often include translated manga (The Eisner Awards, Harvey Awards).

Classics: Classic manga generally refers to manga that has significantly affected culture or impacted a certain genre. It can also refer to manga published in the late 60s-70s, 80s-90s, and late 90s-early 2000s, as each manga generation has a specific art style associated with it and was published at a time when English translated manga was less accessible.

Isekai: Isekai is often referred to as “other world.” The general premise is that a character is transported to another world, usually a fantasy or sci-fi realm, and adventures or slice-of-life stories follow. Modern Isekai manga often has an RPG vibe that appeals to tabletop and video-gamers. Reverse-Isekai is when a character from another world appears in our ordinary world.

LGBTQ+: The LGBTQ+ manga genre features explicit or implied LGBTQ+ protagonists, and often discusses self-identity and real-life issues faced by members of the LGBTQ+ community. An increasing number of “own voices,” publicly out LGBTQ+ manga creators are being published today.

Romance for Men: Many romance manga series appeal to all genders, and there are series that skew towards a male audience of readers. A popular subgenre is romantic comedies with cute, shy, or teasing girl characters.

Yaoi/BL: Yaoi, or Boys Love (BL), refers to manga that focuses on romantic relationships between men. The main creators and audience of this genre are women.

Yuri/GL: Yuri, or Girls Love (GL), refers to manga that focuses on romantic relationships between women.

Umiko Chino is a 65 year-old retired woman in mourning for her late husband. Remembering how they used to watch films together, Umiko goes to the movie theater for the first time in years, where she meets Kai, an attractive, ambiguous young man who studies filmmaking at a nearby art school.

They would seem to have nothing in common, except for this—both of them sometimes like to look more at the way the audience reacts to a movie than the movie itself. Kai believes Umiko has the same deep desire he possesses to experience how people respond to something they made... and challenges her to stake the rest of her life discovering that thrill.

Soon Umiko surprises herself by enrolling in the same film school as Kai. But sailing into this new sea, she's suddenly inside the currents of her fellow students' lives, a much younger generation that she struggles to understand, driven by their own passions and their own relationships. Who's really experienced at life, and is it old age or observation that brings wisdom?

He'll do it all, and it's earned him the nickname "Prince of the Office." This glittering extrovert's opposite at work is Kurone, a quiet woman in another department who soaks up her boss's senseless mood swings with a blank stoicism. After one particularly long day, Mamoru is thrilled to be walking home alone, sipping a beer (because all his colleagues went drinking and left him to work overtime), when he encounters something strange: The usually glum Kurone is in the park, gleefully playing with stray cats. This secret seems silly, but it brings Kurone joy. It's the start of an unlikely relationship that will lead Mamoru to start reflecting on his life and who he really wants to share it with. Is work really all there is, or can he strike a balance with the help of these fluffy new friends—and a human who might become something more?

What if The Odd Couple were Japanese, living in the middle of COVID, and just might be . . . gay?

From Gengoroh Tagame, the brilliant mind behind My Brother's Husband and Our Colors, comes Fish and Water, which follows the unlikely love story of two “straight” friends. Having met at a mutual friend’s wedding, Akira, a business sales administrator, and Koji, a freelance writer, quickly become close buddies. One day, during a visit with a farm client, Akira is offered a case of freshly picked cabbage. Since no one at his office wants it, and he is no cook, Akira decides to see if Koji (who loves to cook) might be interested. Koji accepts and invites Akira to join him. Lonely and in the midst of pandemic-related shutdowns, Akira welcomes the chance and one meal becomes many. Once they get past how to be COVID-cautious, they become quite relaxed with each other, creating an amusing but emotionally perplexing scenario. Eventually, Akira and Koji grapple with deciding if they are just friends, or something more.

Fish and Water is a delightful love story for the modern era, considering how love and connection can find you in the strangest ways.

This hit WEBTOON comic is the story of a man sent back in time by the gods on a mission to prevent the apocalypse... this time around.

Zephyr is the last human fighting evil in a world abandoned by the gods. After he is slain by Tartarus, the Demon Lord, all of humanity seems lost. However, much to the sinister amusement of the gods, Zephyr is reincarnated and sent ten years into the past to try and save humanity. Can Zephyr finally have his revenge against Tartarus and save the woman he loves, or is he doomed to repeat the past?

Zephyr and his rival turned ally Ned are deep in the deadly Tomb of the Fallen Princess. What should have already been a dangerous dungeon raid has become even more volatile, because Tartarus worshippers have infiltrated the team. Advance Guard Captain Mathias means to betray his twenty-year friendship with Raid Party Leader Lucius now that the apocalypse is on the line.

Meanwhile, Zephyr strives to reshape his past with more risky power cultivation, this time contemplating the unstable but incredible power of a dragon heart.

This volume collects episodes 21–36 of the hit WEBTOON comic.

Written by RANDOM HOUSE WORLDS

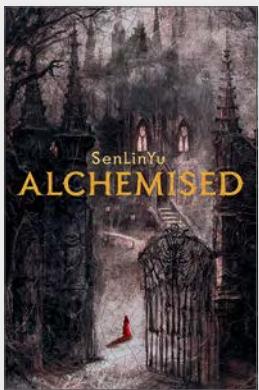

In a world culled by Malthael's Reaping, the Horadric order—humanity's only hope—struggles to gain a foothold. Within the dimming lands of Sanctuary, evils rise from all corners, and though the Horadrim are used to facing down the darkest spawn of the Burning Hells, they are far less prepared for the depravity arising within their fellow men. But as Lorath, Donan, and Tyrael seek justice and a path forward, the Horadrim's numbers have dwindled, leaving humanity vulnerable.

Hoping to strengthen the order, Tyrael and the two mages set sail to Skovos. Though the risk is great, the chance of reclaiming kin—as well as the Horadric vault hidden deep within the heart of the isles—remains too great an opportunity to pass up.

In this campy love letter to the slasher films of the 80s, seven friends reunite for a weekend of fun—only to be hunted by a killer. But the real horror is not being able to escape who you were in high school...

The sleepy town of Cedar Lake Falls is best known as the shooting location of the campy '80s horror flick Slasher. In high school, preppy Patrick, jock Jason, cheerleader Tiffany, stoner Freddy, goth Jennifer, and nerdy Michael had played the cast of Slasher during midnight showings, with virginal Carrie as the Final Girl, of course.

Years later, the friends reunite at the remote cabin where Slasher was filmed. They've changed since high school—Patrick came out, Mikey bulked up, and, well, Freddy's still stoned—and they're looking forward to a weekend to catch up. But when night falls, and the eponymous masked killer is spotted, the reunion takes a deadly turn. The friends discover their tires deflated and the phone line disconnected, and soon they're being stalked by a mysterious assailant. Is someone trying to make their Slasher experience as authentic as possible?

One thing is for sure. Before the night is over, they each will have to take on the role they thought they'd left behind.

Divine your own fate with wisdom from the official Lore Olympus oracle deck, based on the #1 New York Times and Eisner Award-winning Lore Olympus series by Rachel Smythe!

Featuring all-new artwork inspired by the original comic, this 54-card deck brings the characters of the reimagined Greek pantheon to life with gorgeous portrait cards, as well as attribute cards that explore themes from Lore Olympus like Metamorphosis, Autonomy, and Reassurance.

Embrace your fun-loving side and fly with confident, fleet-footed joy into your day when you pull the Hermes card. Ruminate on the Thanatos card so that you don't allow envy to stand in the way of growth and connection. Or follow the Morpheus card's advice and lead with kindness as you navigate new and unfamiliar spaces.

The deck is accompanied by a booklet to explain potential meanings of each card, and suggested divination readings—including both traditional oracle spreads and reimagined readings in the tradition of Lore Olympus—to help you process your day and intuit a path forward.

Gaming 101

The gaming market is larger than ever in 2026. Fans across all age ranges are playing more games across more genres, and media related to gaming has exploded in recent years thanks to the success of shows like Critical Role, Fallout, The Last of Us, and movies like The Super Mario Bros. Movie, A Minecraft Movie, and Five Nights at Freddy's. Video gaming alone outgrosses film and music annually, while tabletop roleplaying games (TTRPGs) have become intergenerational activities, with fans engaging regularly with content creators and streamers. Brands like Dungeons & Dragons and Magic the Gathering are now household names, and the “actual play” genre of podcasts has grown into a market of its own. With the recent rise of the LitRPG genre of books, mimicking or literally portraying RPG adventures in prose, interactive media will continue to influence consumer interests for many years to come. Discover five categories of gaming-related products that you should be stocking in your store to meet this rising demand. Use the checklist on each page to ensure you have the series in stock that will drive sales and support customer growth.

Popular brands include Dungeons & Dragons and the D&D actual play podcast-turned multimedia franchise, Critical Role.

Video Gaming Guides & Accessories

Reference guides, art books, player journals, and more to accompany a video gaming session. Popular brands include Pokémon, Minecraft, The Legend of Zelda, Final Fantasy, and Super Mario. These titles excel during big media tie-in moments like new game releases and make for great gifting opportunities to go with summer gaming sessions.

Narrative Video Game Tie-Ins

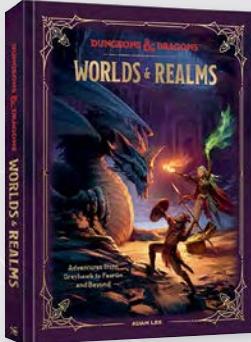

Graphic novels, manga, prose books, and kids' titles based on blockbuster video games like Minecraft, Sonic the Hedgehog, Marvel Rivals, World of Warcraft, Cyberpunk 2077, and Dragon Quest. Featuring iconic characters, big action, and plenty of media tie-in opportunities, these titles can sell with gamers and non-gamers alike.

Gifts, LitRPG, and more

Managing Your Cart on PRH Self-Service

Items added to your cart through your Pull List or browsing PRH Self-Service will be organized into a general cart for Penguin Random House titles and reorders, and FOC carts for items with a FOC date. You can click on the cart icon to access your cart from any screen.

FOC carts are grouped by location and deadline. If you're ordering for multiple locations, you can switch between them using the drop-down menu. You'll also see notifications about upcoming or past deadlines, so you can manage your carts and make sure you don't miss anything.

It's important to confirm your cart before the deadline, so your items are converted into an order. To do this, select the "Confirm Quantities" button from the Cart Summary box. You can still make changes to your cart until the deadline, but after that, your confirmed items will be locked in and can't be edited.

If you make changes to a confirmed cart, it is important that you don't forget to click the 'Confirm Updates' button to save your changes. If you don't confirm your updates before the deadline, you might not get the items you want.

Important things to remember:

- Make sure to confirm your cart before the deadline, so your items are converted into an order.
- After 11:59 EST on the FOC Date, your confirmed carts will be automatically converted into orders and begin processing.
- If you don't confirm your cart, it will be deleted, and you won't receive the items.
- You can still order items after the deadline, but you'll need to add them to your general cart and go through checkout.
- Ratio variants cannot be ordered after the deadline.
- Payment method can be updated at any time prior to the FOC deadline. Your credit card will not be charged until product is shipped.

Checking Out

Within check-out, you'll see your shipping address, order details, method of payment, order review, and checkout summary. Click "Place Order" to submit the order and receive a confirmation email.

Payment method can be updated at any time prior to the FOC deadline. Your credit card will not be charged until product is shipped. To make a change, select the confirmed FOC cart you would like to update from the My Carts page and click on View Payment & Order Details. Unconfirmed orders will need to be confirmed prior to entering payment method.

Managing and Tracking Your Orders

After your order has been placed, click on the Orders section to view all the information you'll need, including the sales order number, purchase order, date created, and ship-to account.

By default, all orders placed in the past 270 days will appear here, but you can also choose to view the past 30 or 60 days. If you need information on orders or invoices older than 270 days, just contact Customer Service and they'll be happy to help.

If you want more details about a specific order, click on the Sales Order number to view the Order Detail. Here, you'll find the order status, tracking information (if available), and the warehouse your items will ship from (or have already shipped from).

To find tracking information for an order, you want to go to the Orders tab. From here, enter the PO or Order Number from the invoice into the search bar, then, click on the order to view the tracking links. Keep in mind that there may be multiple shipments in an order, so you may need to know the items you're looking for to track them.

You can also search for tracking information using the UPC of the title you want to track. Just follow the same steps as above, but search by UPC. All orders containing that UPC will appear in the search results. If the title is on multiple orders, all orders will be listed.

Delivery Details

On the home page, you'll see a list of your most recent deliveries, up to five, from the past 14 days.

If you want to see more information, just click on the "View All Deliveries" link. This will take you to the Deliveries page. Here, you can see the individual titles and quantities for each carton. You can also use the search bar to find a specific title by searching by title, ISBN, or UPC.

You'll also see links to the sales order and invoice numbers on this page. Keep in mind that if you have initials shipping before the month of on-sale, the invoice won't be available until the month of on-sale. But you'll still be able to see the sales order(s).

The Deliveries tab can also be accessed from the Orders dropdown. This page gives you an overview of your deliveries from the past 14 days. You can filter the information by location, and the date range at the top of the page will show you the actual delivery dates. You'll also see the total number of deliveries and cartons for this period.

Browse & Order

Each delivery is listed by its ship date, and you can use the sort button to change the order. You'll see the delivery number, where it's shipping from and to, and the contents tags. These tags tell you what's in each carton, like Initials, Reorders, Managed stock, or Order for events.

If a delivery has multiple cartons, they'll be listed individually, and you can use the carrier link to track each one. For the most up-to-date information, it's best to use the carrier tracking link. The dates on this page show when the cartons left our warehouse.

You can search for specific deliveries using the search bar at the top of the screen. Search by delivery number, ISBN, PO number, and more. If you search by ISBN, PO, or order number, you'll see results from the past 14 days. If you search by delivery number, you'll see results from the past 18 months.
